

Kidnap of Missing Boy Feared

Hundreds Mobilized for Search

An army of 400 sailors, soldiers, police and civilians is hunting Richard Poole. The little boy has been missing since 5 p.m. Wednesday. Above, volunteers get briefing and compare notes as fresh search teams prepare to extend the area of the hunt, biggest in the history of this city, today. (Times photo.)

Lost Boy

Police have broadcast a description of five-year-old Richard Poole, missing from his Oaklands district home since 5 p.m. Wednesday. He is dressed in blue jeans and a dark T-shirt. His hair is bright blond, and his face is heavily freckled. His nose is peeling from sunburn. He is big for his age, about 46 inches tall, and intelligent. "Like a boy of eight," his foster parents say. (See more photos, Page 17.)

A HAPPY BOY

'He Wouldn't Run Away...'

Weight is lent the theory that Richard Poole, five, has been abducted by the statements of neighbors who knew the child and by Mrs. Carol Cluff, his foster mother.

"He's such a nice little fellow and seemed so happy. I can't imagine him running away," said Mrs. Agnes Butterfield, 1637 Burton.

"I was one of 13 children," Mrs. Cluff said. "And my father and mother adopted another child. We were a happy home."

"I also have two adopted babies. All four are just like our own. We'd like to have a dozen more."

"Richie is a happy little boy. He has lots of playmates. He wouldn't run away."

Richie is without a coat.

"Any little boy seen wandering about at night clothed like Richie was," a sailor said, "would have been noticed at once and taken care of. Somebody's got hold of him and is keeping him. Maybe someone found him and just hasn't got around to calling police. Maybe they're scared to."

"There are only two things that can have happened," Deputy Chief of Police Harry Mercer said.

"He has either wandered far out of the area of the search, or he has been picked up by somebody," he added.

Questioned directly as to whether or not he suspected kidnapping, the deputy chief was noncommittal.

The search will continue, he said.

Deputy Chief Mercer slept for two hours today but went back to the direction of the search shortly after 1 p.m.

Churchill Award Unique

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill today was awarded the 1953 Nobel Prize for his brilliant historical writings.

Britain's famed war leader thus became the first maker of history to receive a Nobel Prize for reporting it.

The 175,292 crown ($33,840) award for literature was announced by the Swedish Academy after a brief formal session this afternoon.

The decision was clearly the most unusual ever taken by the academy, which has been distributing the literary Nobel Prizes since the turn of the century.

Although both the foreign office and the U.S. state department claimed the prize together has been in the making for some time, it was given a war-or-peace urgency by Yugoslav President Tito's threats to use force to forestall the announced British-American plan to turn over Trieste's zone A to Italy.

In addition to Trieste and Churchill's Big Four project, the ministers also were expected to give final approval to their new treaty inviting Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov to meet them at Lugano, Switzerland, Nov. 9 to discuss Germany and Austria, and to study latest developments on the projected Korean peace conference.

OVER DAY RIVER, Indo-China (AP)—French and Viet Namese land, sea and air forces jumped off at dawn today in a full-scale offensive aimed at destroying huge war depots and paralyzing Communist divisions threatening an attack on the Red river delta.

(Mr. St. Laurent announced Wednesday the government will nominate L. Rene Beaudoin as new speaker of Commons.)

The prime minister also announced the appointment of Sen. Wishart McL. Robertson, government leader in the upper chamber during the last parliament, as speaker of the senate.

The appointments were approved today by Governor General Vincent Massey.

MacDonald was appointed to the senate after the close of the last session of parliament. His appointment as leader had been forecast since that time. He had proved one of the most popular speakers in the Commons in recent years.

Today's announcements by the prime minister included the naming of seven additional parliamentary assistants for the coming session. They are: William M. Benedickson, Kenora; Rainy River, assistant to Finance Minister D. C. Abbott; Colin E. Bennett, Grey North, assistant to Veterans Affairs Minister Hugues Lapointe; Maurice Bourget, Levis, assistant to Public Works Minister Robert H. Winters; T. A. M. Kirk, Shelburne-Yarmouth; Clare, assistant to Postmaster General Alcide Cote; Leopold Langlois, Gaspé, assistant to Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier; Roch Pinard, Chambly-Rouville, assistant to External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson, and Dr. F. G. Robertson, Northumberland, Ont., assistant to Health and Welfare Minister Paul Martin.

400 Searchers Fail To Find City Tot

By ROY THORSEN

After an all-night search failed to locate a missing five-year-old boy in the Hillside district of Victoria, both police and neighbors expressed fears today that he may have been picked up and taken away.

The missing boy is Richard Poole, 1637 Burton Avenue, who has not been seen since 5 p.m. Wednesday.

By press time today, more than 400 people, including police, naval units, soldiers and civilians were scouring a mile-square area near the lad's home.

Because it is a well populated area the theory of a possible kidnapping was advanced by searchers, although they had nothing more to go on than that he had vanished without trace. No strangers or suspicious characters have been reported in the neighborhood.

His foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cluff, believe Richie has been enticed away, probably by a passing motorist.

"He's a cute, likeable little fellow, with freckles all over his face," William George, 1615 Burton, said.

"It's my honest opinion," said Mr. George, "that Richie has been picked up and taken away."

Richie's real mother and father are separated.

There are four children of the family, one of them with Mr. and Mrs. Cluff.

Richie's real parents, anxiously waiting for word from the emergency search headquarters at a bridge over Bowker Creek near the intersection of Doncaster and Burton, were frightened.

Mr. Poole, a longshoreman, about 40, had been with the searchers through the night. "Dick was so happy with his new parents and his playmates, he wouldn't want to run away." Near exhaustion, he shook his head, doubtfully. "He wouldn't run away."

His mother, Thelma Poole, a stenographer at Royal Roads Services College, said: "In the past, whenever Richie left the house, he always has stayed in the immediate neighborhood." But 400 searchers, sailors, soldiers, police and civilians failed to find a trace of him in a night-and-day search.

It is the greatest hunt ever organized in Victoria.

Had No Supper Wednesday Night

Mrs. Carol Cluff, Richie's foster mother, tells how the little boy vanished.

He came into the house about 5 o'clock, she told a reporter. She told him to get himself washed before supper. He took off his jacket and washed his face and hands. . . . and vanished. He had no supper.

"He has been with me for six months, and he has never run away before," Mrs. Cluff said. "I have two children of my own and two foster children. I love them all."

Hesitantly she admitted she thought he must have been picked up by a passing car. Within a short time after Richie left his home, neighbors had been told he could not be found. There was a brief, cursory search of the neighborhood, which gained speed and energy as time passed without a trace of the child being discovered.

By 6 p.m., the police had joined the hunt.

By 2 a.m. the Navy's first contingent had mustered, and at dawn today 170 sailors, under Lieut. Harold Moise, RCN, and 125 soldiers, as well as civilians and police, were organized.

The hunt concentrated in the area of the little boy's home, an area only partially built up and where brush and trees cover vacant lots. Bowker Creek, sluggish and cold, runs close by the Burton and Doncaster corner. There are pools in the creek bed which are as much as five feet deep. But all have been searched without result.

Searchers even dragged the Smith Hill reservoir, a quarter of a mile away. And on a tip from an unidentified man, naval men went to Beacon Hill Park and hunted it methodically.

Lieuts. G. Jameson and Don Campbell and Charles Pachal led the army units in the hunt. Some of them went into the Oaklands and Mount Tolmie areas.

City policemen and sailors searched every foot of Bowker Creek.

Constable Bonar Hannay, off duty, brought his Labrador retriever, Sookie, to the scene of the hunt. The dog went into the deeper sections of Bowker Creek and through the tunnel near Doncaster.

WITH BESSIE IN JAPAN

Sanjo and Seito Prove Happy Guides

By BESSIE FORBES

What shall I remember of Nara? The city that in 700 A.D. was named first permanent capital of Japan.

The deer in the park! Rows of ancient stone lanterns! Many-storied pagodas! The Great Buddha! . . . a cup of good English tea!

And always, in the background, the brown, wrinkled faces of Sanjo and Seito, Rickshaw boys, who jogged Vancouverite Mary Russell and I around to see all these sights . . . and many more . . . on a Sunday afternoon.

We found them . . . seated on their heels beside their rickshaws . . . in front of Nara Hotel, when we came from the station (forty minutes by second class express from Kyoto, at a fare of 280 yen . . . about 75 cents).

Sanjo could speak English, he said, in a strange mixture of words . . . So could Seito. HE was teaching him!

We hired them on the spot. Sanjo, with his ONE knowing eye blinking in a pock-marked face and wearing dirty white pants, sleeveless coat and big straw coolie hat. And Seito . . . with two eyes . . . but solemn and speechless (as far as we could discover). He wore the same clothes with a shapeless black linen hat, turned down all around on his round shaven head.

"They traveled steadily, at a jog trot, lengthened their stride on the downhill stretches; slowed to a walk on the up-grades, and not once did we feel as if we might be turned over, even on narrow, winding paths."

We went down the hill from the hotel. Across Sarusawa Pond with its perfect reflection of the five-storied pagoda of Kofukuji Temple reflected in its still waters.

"Take picture here," Sanjo said and he and Seito flipped us expertly out of our rickshaws.

"See fishes?" . . . He leaned over the bridge to show us many carp swimming lazily in the shadows . . . "Be-e-g turtles!" His one good eye searched the shore line. His wrinkled brown hand waved downward and we found the

AMOUNT OF THE RAIN KEY TO CROSSWORD; NO WINNER

Although the puzzle was printed in only two days' editions last week-end due to the holiday, entries in the weekly crossword contest reached near the 5,000 mark, but there was still no winner.

Biggest stickler was the word "cracks," which the puzzle composer rules is the best answer to the definition "heavy rains can obliterate them from the ground." Most people answered "tracks," but the puzzle man points out that very light rain can obliterate tracks.

With no winner this week, the next puzzle, appearing tomorrow, Saturday and Monday, will be worth $175, plus the $50 bonus if the winner is a regular subscriber. Correct answer to Puzzle No. 29 is on Page 27.

Chinese PWs Rebuff Reds

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Balky Chinese war prisoners today rejected overwhelmingly the first Communist attempts to coax them home.

Of 500 Chinese who met Red interviewers in an opening session, only seven requested repatriation to Red China, said the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission.

The long-delayed interviews began only after Indian custodian troops pried the wildly demonstrating Chinese from their compounds with threats of force.

After defying two Indian ultimatum, the first 200 rock-throwing, bugle-blowing anti-Red Chinese finally submitted to Communist interviews.

Communist persuasion teams will talk to 1,000 prisoners Friday, including at least 500 North Koreans.

GE's Atomic Power Plan Sends Shares Up

Development of an atomic power plant to produce plutonium and electric energy was proposed today by General Electric.

Announcement of the suggestion, made to U.S. atomic energy commission, started a three-point advance in GE shares on New York stock exchange.

The GE rally led the whole Wall Street list higher. (See page 15 for stock market details.)

Police Probe Chilly Creek

No nook or cranny in the area of the hunt was left untested. Here, police examine the muddy bottom of Bowker Creek, where it passes through a culvert. But neither they nor any of the 400 other searchers uncovered a single clue to the whereabouts of the boy. (Times photos by Irving Strickland.)

LIQUOR BILL LOOPHOLE

Clubs May Escape 10% Tax By Using 'Locker' System

British Columbia membership clubs will be able to escape charging the new 10 per cent sales tax on drinks by re-instituting the "locker system" of serving liquor, it was reliably learned today.

Under the locker system a club member buys his bottle of liquor at a liquor store, places it in his locker at the club and is served from that bottle. He is charged a service fee by the club, commonly known as "corkage."

The 10 per cent tax, it is said, cannot be charged under this system, because the member actually isn't buying the liquor from the club.

At least three clubs in Victoria and Vancouver now operate the locker system.

They can escape the tax, which goes into effect next week.

Clubs which don't have locker systems now, however, could change over and thereby escape the tax. These include veterans' clubs, golf clubs and various fraternal clubs—provided they qualify as membership clubs.

Even proprietary clubs, which face extinction under the new law, could conceivably qualify if they switched over to a bona fide membership set-up. But these clubs are only to exist until the end of next year, and a changeover is unlikely.

Earlier doubt about the effective date of the 10 per cent tax has now been clarified.

The tax will be effective next week in all establishments, except beer parlors, now selling drinks by the glass. This includes proprietary clubs and membership clubs (without locker systems).

It becomes law the moment the lieutenant-governor gives Royal assent to the bill when the House prorogues early next week.

Beer parlors in veterans' clubs will have the same status as separate beer parlors. The tax will not be applied.

The new tax will be charged on beer, wine and hard liquor sold in restaurants, cocktail lounges and night clubs.

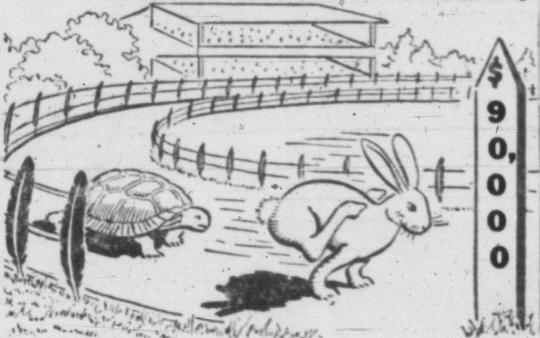

The tax also will be charged on all purchases in licensed premises which provide entertainment such as cabarets and night clubs, in lieu of the three per cent sales tax. This means the tax will be charged on meals as well as drinks in such premises.

The proposed 10 per cent sales tax on drinks by the glass in B.C. is unnecessary because the government already is making a $21,000,000 profit from liquor, Bruce Brown (Lib. Prince Rupert), said in the Legislature Wednesday night.

He was commenting during second reading of a bill imposing the new tax on liquor sold

Oil Pipeline To B.C. Coast Now Operating

VANCOUVER—The $93,000,000 Trans Mountain oil pipeline between Edmonton, Alta., and Vancouver was officially opened today. Built during the past 19 months, this 24-inch pipeline will transport Alberta crude oil via a 718-mile route across the Canadian Rockies to Vancouver and the Pacific Coast and will make available a new source of crude oil for the Pacific Northwest market.

The line has a capacity of 120,000 barrels per day, but this will be increased to approximately 150,000 barrels per day by completion of a fourth pumping station in December. Through the construction of additional pumping stations, its ultimate capacity can be increased to over 300,000 barrels per day.

The initial consumers to be served by Trans Mountain will be two refineries in the Vancouver area.

Other refineries are now, or soon will be, under construction, and Trans Mountain can supply them with their crude oil requirements in whole or in part upon their completion. These include a 5,000-barrel per day refinery now being constructed by Royalite Products Limited at Kamloops, B.C. (scheduled for completion early in 1954); a 35,000-barrel-per-day refinery now being constructed by General Petroleum Corporation at Ferndale, Washington (scheduled for completion the fall of 1954), and an 11,000-barrel-per-day expansion about to be started at Vancouver by Standard Oil Company of British Columbia Limited (scheduled for completion late in 1954). In addition, a contract was recently let for the construction of a 50,000-barrel-per-day refinery near Anacortes, Washington, which is scheduled to be completed during the latter part of 1955.

As part of the opening ceremonies of Trans Mountain Oil Pipe Line Company, a special train Wednesday took about 80 executives from North America's leading oil and pipeline companies, and a large group of press representatives on a tour of the western end of the pipeline.

100 Police Smash Through 500 Hamilton Strikers

HAMILTON, Ont. (BUP)—More than 100 police smashed through a shouting, shoving mass of 500 strikers outside the Wallace Barnes Company plant today and 10 pickets were jailed.

Eighteen persons were injured in the melee which developed into a series of hand-to-hand battles. Most of the casualties were among the 75 workers who entered the plant and were treated at the first aid station inside. One policeman was bitten by a striker's dog.

Three Mayors Elected In Alberta Voting

EDMONTON (CP)—An all-time low percentage vote of 11.3 in Edmonton and record votes in Calgary, Red Deer and Drumheller were registered in Indian summer weather Wednesday in the second uniform civic elections for Alberta's seven cities.

Mayor Don H. Mackay was re-elected to his third two-year term at Calgary in one of the three mayoralty contests. He defeated Don F. McIntosh, veteran labor councillor, and Gordon Wray, former member of the Labor Progressive (Communist) party.

In Red Deer, Alberta's fifth largest city, retired railroader Harvey W. Halladay, mayor from 1945 to 1947 but out of civic politics since 1949, scored an upset victory in a mayoralty race against Alec L. Sim, an alderman the last four years. Incumbent Paul Crawford did not seek re-election.

In the coal-mining centre of Drumheller, insurance agent

William H. Anderson was elected mayor in a two-way race with Robert Brennand, wholesale manager and acting mayor since the death of L. A. Bennett last July.

Mayor William Hawrelak of Edmonton was re-elected by acclamation on nomination day September 23. It was the first acclamation victory by an Edmonton mayor in 11 years.

Among prominent elected aldermanic candidates were Grant MacEwan, former dean of agriculture at the University of Manitoba, in Calgary; A. W. Shackelford, present mayor of Lethbridge; L. S. Turcotte, 1951 Lethbridge mayor; Hu Harries, economist and witness at freight rate hearings, in Edmonton; Arthur R. Smith, son of the late member of parliament, A. L. Smith, in Calgary; and Mrs. Rose Wilkinson, long-time member of the Alberta legislature, in Calgary.

There are no mayoralty contests in Lethbridge, where the mayor is selected annually by the new council.

PROJECTILE?

U.K. A-Bomb May Be New War Weapon

WOOMERA, Australia (AP)

Unofficial observers speculated that Britain's second atom test weapon—set off earlier today in this South Australia desert region—was a projectile warhead.

A third British test is scheduled here soon.

There was, as usual, no official word on the type of weapon exploded today, but observers based their warhead theory on the comparative smallness of the devastated area and the fact that the blast was officially described as smaller than the one Britain set off in her first atomic test a year ago.

Today's blast was the 43rd atomic explosion reported by western nations since the United States set off the first one in New Mexico eight years ago.

SWAN SONG — Kirsten Flagstad, the Norwegian Wagner soprano, bade farewell to the concert platform Wednesday night at a performance in London's royal festival hall. Her farewell included an appropriate choice for the greatest Isolde of two decades, Isolde's Liebestod. She won a thunderous sendoff from the capacity audience.

DICK TRACY STILL IN TROUBLE

Judge Would Jail Crime Comic Publishers

WINNIPEG (CP)—Chief Justice E. A. McPherson declared Wednesday in Court of Appeal that fines will not stop publication of crime comics and "the tycoons at the top should go to jail for a few years."

He made the statement in reserving judgment on the appeal of Abe Rober, Winnipeg lunch counter operator, who was fined $5 in police court for selling Dick Tracy comic books.

The judge indicated the appeal would be dismissed but a written judgment would be handed down because it was a test case and would give a lead to publishers of such books.

"I am suggesting personally where the crime is for the purpose of making money a fine is not the way to punish tycoons at the top should go to jail for a few years."

"This stuff, if it is going to be stopped, will never be stopped by $5, $10 or $25 fines."

Defense Counsel F. J. Turner said the comic did not depict "substantially and exclusively the commission of crime." He said it showed only the commission of crime in part. The Criminal Code was aimed at periodicals where crime was predominant, he said.

Proceeds will go to the Queen Alexandra Solarium for Crippled Children.

Mill Bay Gymkhana Will Aid Solarium

Horses and riders from all parts of the island will congregate at Mill Bay, Sunday, Oct. 25, for the third annual gymkhana staged at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Jackson, Kilmalu Road.

About 60 contestants are expected to enter the hunter trials and western events. The show will begin at 11 a.m. and continue until 5 p.m.

IN THE HOUSE

By GORDON FORBES

Premier Bennett told the House Wednesday he voted "no" in the 1952 liquor plebiscite.

He said he was personally against more outlets.

The premier was using this as an example during an Elections Act debate to show how his government observes the will of the people.

Regardless of government members' own opinion, he said, they will represent the wishes of the majority.

Gordon Gibson (Lib. Lilloet), took time out from the sitting to go into the ladies' gallery to "sit with his 84-year-old mother."

"There's a stranger in the House," Leo Nimick (CCF, Cranbrook), noted in the traditional manner.

Soon after a House attendant went to inform Mr. Gibson he was breaking the rules.

Members are supposed to keep out of the public galleries—even if their mother is there.

Mr. Gibson, a giant of a man, appeared unperturbed.

The House passed 20 minor bills in a matter of about 30 minutes in a sudden burst of speed early in the sitting.

Mr. Gibson informed the House the bills were going past so fast he doubted if 90 per cent of the members knew 2 per cent of the bills' contents.

"I challenge the members to explain any of these bills. For all we know, we've passed a bill to hang every second person here."

But he concluded philosophically the government didn't want to listen to the opposition anyway.

He thought he might get an ear plug for each government member so that statements of the opposition wouldn't go straight through.

Nanaimo Jury Finds Accused Man Insane

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP) — A verdict of not guilty because of insanity was returned by an assize court jury here Wednesday in the trial of Douglas Winter Cook, 27, charged with the murder of his father in 1949.

Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane ordered Cook to be held in close custody at Oakalla prison pending the wishes of the lieutenant-governor. The jury deliberated for 27 minutes before reaching a verdict.

The murder charge was laid against Cook this year upon his release from Essondale Mental Hospital where he spent the last four years.

The father, Marion Winter Cook, was shot in his restaurant-confectionery at Duncannon, B.C., in March, 1949. Mrs. R. Olsen, a Crown witness at the trial, testified that she was in the premises at the time of the shooting and had seen the accused run from the premises.

Psychiatrists called in by the defense testified that they be-

TREASURY BIRD READY TO FLIT?

Elections Act amendments before the legislature are a topoff that the "migratory bird of the treasury benches," Hon. Einar Gunderson, is on the wing again. Liberal Leader Arthur Laing said in the House Wednesday.

"This is the season when the quiet calm of autumn is given by the keening and calling of migratory birds," said Mr. Laing.

He said he didn't know where Mr. Gunderson would alight next.

"I've been watching the government members to see whose head is going to come off, but I can't tell yet," Mr. Laing stated.

He noted a rumor that the announcement will be made Saturday.

The Liberal party, he said, is prepared for the election. "My honorable friend won't have to wait long," said the Premier.

The amendments to the Elections Act now before the House, mainly abolishing the alternative voting system, were termed "the Gunderson Benefit Bill" by Bruce Brown (Lib., Prince Rupert).

Government Muzzles Opposition In Voting Millions for Supply

The provincial government refused to allow discussion of estimates details in a $172,950,466 supply bill in the Legislature Wednesday.

CCF and Liberal members failed to convince the government of the need for at least some debate on individual estimates, and the bill was given final reading.

The bill provides $79,000,000 to run the province for the remainder of the fiscal year. An interim $94,000,000 supply bill was passed in the spring after the government's defeat.

Premier Bennett, outlining his government's position, said the estimates were approved by the House in the spring and confirmed by the present Legislature when second reading was given the supply bill last Friday.

"The supply bill is before the House but not the estimates," he said.

The premier did allow certain questions to be asked of his ministers. But when the questions got down to details, he reminded the members the estimates were not before the House.

Such questions, he said, should be placed on the order paper.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said: "All we are doing tonight is seeking approval for the balance of supply of which the estimates are already approved. It's not practical and there is no precedent to go back over the estimates."

"Typical legal advisor—evolution," said Randolph Harding.

GIRL'S STORY FAILS TO SAVE COMPANION

Jury Convicts in Ten Minutes On Narcotics Possession Charge

An Assize Court jury Wednesday refused to believe an attractive 18-year-old girl drug addict when she swore that her friend and companion, Denis Charles O'Brien, 713 Pembroke Street, did not know she possessed narcotics in her room at 2531 Government Street.

Following a trial which lasted all day, the jury, under Mr. Justice H. S. Wood, found O'Brien guilty of unlawful possession of narcotics on September 25. He was remanded for sentence to the end of the assizes.

The 28-year-old accused, who only a year ago was sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment for a similar offence, was unmoved when the jury returned the verdict of guilty.

His mother, clad in a black hat and dress and showing signs of strain, was in the courtroom when her son was convicted. She had testified on his behalf at the trial.

O'Brien's girl friend, Lenora Watson, defended the accused by claiming he had no knowledge that she possessed heroin capsules. She took the blame upon herself.

ALREADY CONVICTED

The young woman last week was sentenced in city police court to six months' imprisonment and fined $200 and in default two months additional.

RCMP officers, assisted by city detectives, arrested the couple September 26 after they discovered eight heroin capsules hidden in a chest of drawers. The capsules were contained in a finger of a rubber glove which was tucked onto the back of one of the drawers.

Police also found in the bathroom of the rooming house an eye-dropper with a hypodermic needle attached. This was wrapped in a parcel and was discovered lying on the floor.

Hazel Hathaway, proprietor of the rooming house on Government Street, testified that the accused and the girl rented the room about a week prior to their arrest. She became suspicious of them, she said, when several people went to the room during the week.

She added that she often heard the accused "sniffing" in the bathroom and found this somewhat strange.

Mrs. O'Brien, who was called to the witness stand to testify on behalf of her son, said on the night the offense was allegedly committed, the accused spent most of the evening at home playing "checkers" with his auntie.

She said he left the house shortly after 11 o'clock and when he returned he was in the custody of the police.

Under cross-examination by Crown counsel George Gregory, Mrs. O'Brien denied that Lenora Watson had visited her home on the evening prior to her son's arrest. She did admit, however, that she knew that her son was an habitual drug-taker.

Lenora Watson testified that she had gone to the accused's home prior to his arrest and played cards with Mrs. O'Brien. This contradicted Mrs. O'Brien's evidence that the girl had not visited her.

She said, however, that O'Brien did not know that she had hidden heroin capsules in her room. She said she got the drug in Vancouver and lied when she told police after her arrest that O'Brien knew all about the narcotic she possessed.

She said she lied because she did not want to be found guilty on a charge of possessing narcotics at her own trial last week.

The girl frequently glanced at the accused sitting in the prisoner's box during her cross-examination. On one occasion, Mr. Gregory told her not to look at O'Brien when she was answering his questions.

The jury retired to consider a verdict shortly after 5 p.m. They required only 10 minutes.

Stop! You don't need to scrub like that to get your wash sparkling white. Washing can make clothes clean, but only Blue can make them really white. Scientists have proved that true whiteness is made up of all the seven colours of the rainbow and if blue is missing, white turns to dingy yellow. That's why washing needs that last rinse with Blue to replace the missing blue rays and restore sparkling whiteness. So put a dash of Blue in the rinse-water to get your wash really white. And here's good news! Blue is completely harmless to even the finest of fabrics. Costs just a few pennies a month to use, too! Yes, for the whitest wash, use RECKITT'S BLUE.

And Now the Tippler's Tax

THE PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT'S proposed new 10 per cent Tippler's Tax on drinks by the glass offers the municipalities a cash reward for alcoholic beverage sales within their boundaries. In effect, the Government is saying to cities and towns, if you are "wet" you will collect in direct ratio to the amount of liquor consumed in your district.

This is an inescapable conclusion in spite of any protestations in favor of temperance. The municipalities are being offered a cut in returns from proposed new liquor outlets and they will be hurt financially if they succeed in efforts to curtail this type of drinking.

In the late hours of the session, the Legislature is being asked to approve a bill that will encourage municipalities to depend more directly on liquor for some of their revenue. They will receive half the tax, according to present provisions. The more liquor consumed in licensed restaurants, cocktail lounges and clubs, the higher the return to the city or town concerned.

Should any decide to be dry, they will be cutting off a tap dribbling cash into their own coffers. Such a policy can scarcely find approval among citizens or councils averse to new outlets.

But if the tax raises serious questions of propriety in the minds of municipal corporations, it presents a strictly economic issue to the drinker. The Tippler's Tax increases by one-tenth of its final price the amount he must pay for his liquor by the glass. And that price, even without the new charge, may be reckoned at approximately 10 times the cost of producing the beverage.

The price of Scotch at the British distillery is roughly 85 cents a bottle. To that the Canadian government adds a duty of $12.50 a proof gallon or $3.12 a quart, plus 10 per cent on value after the duty is paid. The provincial government allows for its mark-up.

The proprietor of the establishment where drinks are served will determine the return he needs to meet overhead—including wages, furnishings and amenities—as well as his own profit, and the 85 cent bottle will be doled out at a rate which amounts to roughly 10 times its original price.

The new impost takes another 10 per cent from the pocket of the purchaser.

These additions, be it noted, are placed on liquor weakened well below pre-war strength.

The tax shows the Government reaching out once again to collect a new levy—the third introduced by Social Credit during the present session. The Tippler's Tax follows those on timber and mines and the extension of rights to municipalities to tax machinery and equipment.

For a Government pledged to economy, the present administration seems insatiable in its appetite for new revenues.

Enlightening Comparison

DR. H. B. KING, RETIRED chief inspector of British Columbia schools, has taken the trouble to document the similarities in the Alberta school program and that of this province.

He has undertaken that task because he sees in the recent remarks of Mrs. Lydia Arsens, member for Victoria, a resurgence of the style of criticism launched by A. J. Reid, Salmon Arm, last spring against the British Columbia school system.

Citing chapter and verse Dr. King shows how closely the two coincide, even to the sections loosely termed "sex education." In the latter field, he notes, Alberta goes somewhat beyond British Columbia with a discussion of venereal disease.

Having presented his evidence, Dr. King proceeds to his deductions. They are summed up as follows:

"As the curriculum in each province, in principle, form and content, is so much like the curriculum in the other, to attack one is to attack both. If the Alberta-reared critics didn't know this, they are chargeable with ignorance. Ignorant persons shouldn't assume the role of curriculum-maker.

"If, on the other hand, they did know the essential identity of the curriculum in both provinces, then (a) the attack on the B.C. system is an indirect and covert attack on the Alberta system and on the Social Credit government there, thus revealing the brawling of factions amongst the keepers of the temple; or else (b) the attack on B.C. is a hypocritical political attack made in confident expectation that no one would know the facts.

"Thus in seeking an explanation of the Social Credit attitude towards B.C. education you have your choice between ignorance and obliquity."

Dr. King has high respect for the Alberta curriculum-makers and their product. His remarks on the critics will not be unanimously applauded, but they will be approved by most people who have taken the trouble to make some study of the B.C. school system.

Training Ground for What?

IT SEEMS UNFORTUNATE THAT this year's student council of Victoria College has foundered on a reef successfully avoided by last year's self-government group. The present council has decided to bar press representatives of the College "Martlet" as well as of outside publications—from council meetings.

The group, of course, is acting in what it thinks is the best interests of the student body which it serves. It fears that information derogatory to the College, or causing friction with the Normal School with which it shares the Richmond Road building, might be made public.

In this, however, the council overlooks a major principle. When meeting in session the students composing the elected council are sitting merely as a committee of the College student body—they are representatives, servants, not overseers or masters. What they do, they do merely as selected members of the College at large, and hence their every word and action are the property—and responsibility—of the student body.

That body should therefore have access, through its press representatives, to first-hand information of what is said and done. Handing out prepared statements on what transpires at council meetings is a direct negation of the democratic process; it merely suggests that the council is unsure of itself.

No Welcome Mat

THE MANNER IN WHICH THE City Council has trapped itself by its policy of refusing charitable grants during the last year or two is clearly demonstrated in the case of the entertainment allowance proposed for the Canadian Good Roads Association convention.

The finance committee, supported by the mayor, favored allocation of $200 for that purpose. The vote to provide the sum was lost on a four-to-four tie.

By that decision—and it appears correct in view of the fact that other applicants have been turned down—Victoria remains consistently inhospitable to important gatherings here.

The mayor and aldermen unquestionably appreciate the importance of the tourist business to this community. They must realize, if they have noted recent figures, that greater efforts are required to draw more visitors here.

Yet, because it has been seized by the urgency of economy, the council has been unable to create a favorable impression on many groups which have come to Victoria and found no welcome mat spread for them by the civic authorities.

Some money has been saved, but what will this policy cost eventually?

That unquestionably is one of the points to which the citizens should direct their minds if they are given the opportunity—as they presumably will be—to vote for restoration of grants in December.

All-Canadian Music

A REMARKABLE TRIBUTE has been made to Canadian music by Leopold Stokowski, who is conducting an all-Canadian program at Carnegie Hall this week. "The best music that Canada has to offer," says the distinguished maestro, "ranks with possibly the best that any country in the world is producing today."

Stokowski is basing his program on 220 scores submitted by some 180 hopefuls. Many of the pieces are inferior. Of the ones chosen, it is interesting that one concerns native rhythms of Bali and another is Healey Willan's Coronation Suite which, after all, is dedicated to the mother country. This leads us to reflect that the only "whistleable" or "humable" Canadian tune extant is "Jumping Bean," written by Robert Farnon of Toronto and presumably dedicated to Mexico.

We are proud of Stokowski's dictum, and intrigued by it. Where are these works of Canadian composers? Do any of them concern Canadian themes? Will we ever hear a piece of mood music which captures the spirit and flavor of this country, its vast Arctic loneliness, its majestic scenery, the hum of its industry?

Where, in short, is the composer who will do for Canada in music what Coligny did in literature?

The Noblemen of Canada

Hutchison
solemn and funniest publications of recent times.

THIS remarkable record lists all the peers of Britain and it shows at a glance why we can never hope to create such characters in this rough frontier land. For example, where would we find in Canada another Earl of Sutherland, described by Swift as "a blundering rattle-pated sot," or his successor who was "fond of riding on locomotive engines and of watching fire brigades at work," or an Earl of Thanet who won £40,000 at cards one night and next night lost £120,000.

WE don't produce such personages as the first Lord Teynham, who bought a peerage from James I for £10,000 only to have a successor lose his estates at the gaming table; or the Earl of Spencer, who died at 38, according to Horace Walpole, "because he would not be abridged of those invaluable blessings of an English subject, brandy, small-beer and tobacco," or an Earl of Thanet who won £40,000 at cards one night and next night lost £120,000.

In short, Canada is too young, inexperienced and innocent to support that kind of nobility. So is Britain now-days, for that matter, and her nobles have become an impoverished, hard-working lot, pitifully respectable and virtuous.

NOBILITY in Canada was a failure not so much because titles were abused in the case of large political campaign fund contributors but because we could never really believe in them. We could never believe that a man had suddenly become a nobleman overnight when we had known him as Joe Doakes, one of ourselves, all our lives. Only with great difficulty, and on public occasions, could we manage to call him Sir Joseph or Lord Joseph when he still looked like good old Joe.

Nevertheless, it is quite wrong to suppose that we have no interest in the principle of aristocracy. On the contrary, we are infatuated with it in our own fashion. And instead of creating one reigning aristocracy by law we have created dozens of them by custom.

IN every walk of life we have our aristocracies, never publicly admitted but tacitly accepted: There is an aristocracy of business, in which a few men hold titles nameless but actually more powerful than those of "The Common Peerage." (The reader doubtless knows the names here in British Columbia so there is no need to mention them.) There is also an aristocracy of labor, with anonymous titles perhaps even more powerful. There is an aristocracy in every organized profession and trade, and our political parties, democratic in ideals, are aristocratic to the core. But all these separate aristocracies are kept secret from one another.

THUS, to take a familiar example, the dukes, peers and knights of the clothespin industry are fully recognized, with proper deference, among their colleagues but are unknown in the aristocracy of the morticians, beauticians and dietitians. The caste system of the plumbers, the carpenters, painters and newspapermen is likewise mysterious but to the public regnant and unbreakable.

AS every new profession and skill establishes itself its first instinct is to form an aristocracy, not for any sordid purpose of gain, of course, but to promote its ethics and enforce its ideals. That is mainly why our society is so ethical and idyllic. It will not tolerate aristocrats who gamble away their family saving, drink to excess and wear their hats at dinner. Our aristocrats therefore are pure but deadly dull and there is nothing worth while to be written about them.

THIS curious cellular movement has gone so far that at any time we may expect to see a private bill before the legislature establishing the Safebreakers' Protective Association to raise the ethics of safebreaking, or the Whisky Drinkers' Foundation to lower the present water content of government liquor and finally, as society improves in intelligence, The Institute of Newspaper Columnists (with Lord Monte Roberts as its Grand Master and Perpetual President), to suppress unethical comment of this sort.

The Change in Kremlin Policy

ARNOLD TOYNBEE in London—Calling

IS the temperature of the world's troubles today really above normal? That is surely the question that we ought to ask ourselves, and my personal answer would be that at the present moment the world is certainly not in so bad a way as it was in the winter of 1950-51.

That, you will remember, was the time of the great retreat of the United Nations forces in Korea. I happened, myself, to be in America then, and I remember very vividly the expectations with which I sailed for Europe.

I thought then that I was sailing straight into the jaws of a third world war. That was a really bad moment.

Yet, on that occasion, our forebodings happily turned out to have been mistaken; for during the past two and a half years the barometer has been gradually rising.

STILL ANXIOUS

Frustration and anxiety are our paramount feelings still, even if we recognize with our minds that today we are not in quite such a serious plight as we were at the end of 1950.

My guess would be that at this moment the Russians, like the rest of us, are feeling that they are in a fix. They see well enough that they cannot go on with Stalin's policy. Probably the people now in power in Moscow have seen this for quite a time without having been able to do anything about it so long as Stalin was alive.

They see that after two great devastating wars and one great devastating revolution all within one lifetime the Russian people cannot keep up so hot a pace indefinitely; and I expect they have also found that while it may be just possible to flog people into doing, rather badly, the roughest kinds of unskilled work, you cannot get highly skilled work out of them in that barbarous way—and the Soviet Union cannot afford to do with less than the highest skill in her technology.

PENALTY FEARED

The penalty for falling behind in Russia's technological race with the Western world would be for her to be outclassed in power and then to find herself at our mercy.

So for self-preservation the Soviet Government must have this human commodity—a high level of skill, exercised by a large number of technicians, organizers, and researchers—and they have to buy it at the world price.

A fairly urgent need to give their own people a rather easier and less unattractive life, if they are to keep their production going, does seem to be the explanation of the new course that the Soviet Government has been steering since Stalin's death.

NOT EASY

But this is where the frustration comes in. For after the dance that they have led the rest of the world while they have been sailing on the Stalin tack the Russians naturally are not finding it easy to convince the world outside the Iron Curtain that they are genuinely sincere in their apparent change of policy; and they also are not finding it easy to keep their subject peoples quiet now that some relaxation of Soviet discipline is in the air.

The riots in Berlin this summer have shown what would be likely to happen in other satellite countries if the Russians did take the lid off there. So the Russians are probably feeling themselves in a fix. They cannot see how to go forward, yet they know that they cannot go back.

This frustration of Russia is the legacy that Stalin has left behind him. But do not let us yield to our natural human temptation to crow over Moscow's present difficulties.

TWO REASONS

There are two good reasons for our taking a more human attitude towards Russia than that.

One reason is that if there is a possibility of the Russians genuinely changing over to a more neighborly policy than Stalin's was we do not want to see the Russians frustrated in that, and we certainly do not want to see them driven back upon the desperate and dangerous conclusion that, after all, there is nothing for it but a showdown in the shape of a third world war.

The second reason why the Western world ought to resist the temptation of crowing over the Russians now is that we happen to be in the same boat as they are. If Noah's Ark is scuttled by a hydrogen bomb we, too, as well as the Russians, will perish.

DOES HIS OWN THINKING

That was quite a "note" Mr. Jim Smith wrote in reply to my communication which appeared in these columns recently relative to the proposed new liquor legislation now before the provincial Legislature.

Unfortunately Mr. Smith confuses the issue by introducing a mass of verbiage not germane to the subject. He even confuses morality with Christianity as if the latter had a monopoly on the former.

In no uncertain manner Mr. Smith voices his opinions on the liquor traffic. For my part I am more concerned over the preservation of individual liberty and, like all law-abiding citizens, I fully appreciate the responsibilities which the exercise of individual liberty entails. I require no Jim Smiths to speak on my behalf regarding the liquor traffic since I am quite capable of doing my own thinking on this or any other matter. His accusation that I am "defending" the liquor traffic is sheer nonsense and can only be construed as a gratuitous insult on his part. The liquor traffic, in

ARENA ISSUE

In your paper I have seen the names of those who contemplate running for mayor in the forthcoming civic election. Leaving aside the present mayor and Mr. Charles Hunt, one wonders how the rest of them—ever expect anyone with the slightest grain of intelligence to support them, especially on their past records of incompetence.

The time is long overdue, but I am now putting the $64 question up to these same gentlemen. It is as follows: If you are elected mayor do you propose to carry out at once the terms of the plebiscite relating to the Memorial Arena, which I might remind you cost the unfortunate taxpayers $1,250,000?

The terms of the plebiscite were as follows: This arena is to be built as a Memorial to those who died in World War Two, and to be operated in the interests of the general community on a non-profit basis. If they are against operating the arena on these terms then the unfortunate taxpayers are entitled to know the reason why.

MAJOR CAUSE

Ladysmith Chronicle

For years government authorities, insurance associations, fire marshals, fire chiefs and many other associations have endeavored to awaken the public from its apathetic attitude to one of awareness.

It is well known from statistics that the major cause of fires is carelessness. If every Canadian exercised more care, fire losses would diminish and millions of dollars would be saved to say nothing of the lives and injuries suffered by countless persons every year.

Make this year a real "Fire Prevention" year.

MOST INSPIRING

This Canadian-American relationship that exists today, and that has now existed for not far from a century and a half, is one of the finest, most inspiring things in the history of the world. The more one thinks upon it, the more one realizes what an epic it is in international affairs. The planned visit to Ottawa next month, for three days, of President and Mrs. Eisenhower, illustrates afresh the reality and practical nature of this relationship.

REAL ATTEMPT

Courtenay Comox Argus

The Sacred government should get 90 per cent marks for their new liquor law. It's the first real attempt any government has made to change our liquor laws in the past 32 years and it required courage to do it because it will give a terrific jolt to vast invested interests.

The acid test of it will be to see whether it will reduce drunkenness, and we shall not know that for at least one year after it has been in force. The bill follows the admirable Stevens' report closely. It will work a tremendous change in the ownership of liquor purveying establishments, and we hope, in drinking habits.

Those are very simple emotions, but I believe the same holds good of emotions much more complex. The joy and grief of the artist in his art, of the strong man in his fighting, of the seeker after knowledge or righteousness in his many wanderings; these and things like them, all the great terrors and desires and beauties, belong somewhere to the permanent stuff of which daily life consists; they go with hunger and thirst and love and the facing of death.

'Mony a Mickle Meks a Muckle'

THERE is an old Scottish proverb which extols the virtue of thrift. It is "Mony a mickle meks a muckle." But hundreds of thousands of Canadians, including many who owe their origin to places far from the "land o' the heather," are today attesting to the soundness of its truth. For today is Credit Union Day, which marks the centenary of that great movement which embodies the principle of that old Scottish saw.

Nancy

Credit unions are self-help co-operatives, set up to encourage thrift among their members by giving them a place where they may deposit their savings, which are then pooled and made available to members who need loans. These are provided at a low rate of interest and, in Victoria, for instance, are all insured against death or disability.

LIQUIDATING LOANS

The idea is patterned something after the old building and loan societies which have flourished for so long in Britain. But in Canada the loans are not confined to house-buying. They are made to help the member repair his home, to buy an automobile, to purchase tractors and other farm equipment. Many loans are granted simply to consolidate debts, and give the borrower one repayment only to make instead of a dozen.

As an instance, I learned of the case of an unnamed Victoria working man who, through no fault of his own, found himself in debt to numerous tradesmen to the extent of $600. A family man, he found it impossible to meet the debts until he was induced to join the credit union of his particular craft. Under its guidance he was loaned the $600, with which he immediately settled his debts, and is repaying the union at the rate of $25 a month.

Another heartwarming instance of the value of credit unions comes from Hornby Island, where an 11-year-old boy, with his father's backing, borrowed $300 to buy a boat. Within one month of his school holidays that boy had repaid the loan with money made from the sale of fish he caught. While that boy may not necessarily turn out to be a captain of industry or a leader in finance when he grows up, you may be sure that this early lesson in self-help will serve him to good purpose.

GREEKS HAD A WORD FOR IT

The credit union movement isn't altogether a modern idea. The early Greeks had some sort of co-operative savings and loans, and back in Italy about the 14th century they tried it out for a time. But it wasn't until some 100 years ago that the mayor of the town of Flammersfeld, Germany, launched the first version of the modern credit union. They did pretty well in Germany until Hitler came along and threw them out, along with many other good things.

It was the grinding poverty of rural Quebec that led Alphonse Desjardins of Levis to introduce the idea into that little French-Canadian town 50 years ago, as an antidote to usury. It began with a few deposits, totaling $26.40. Today, the Province of Quebec alone has tens of thousands of members and assets totaling $225,000,000. In the meantime, the movement has grown amazingly, spreading its gospel of self-help throughout Canada.

Since the movement was introduced into British Columbia in 1939, more than 80,000 people have joined. In Greater Victoria alone there are 7,000 members—in such groups as the B.C. Government Employees' Credit Union, B.C. Telephone Co., Victoria Laundries, Victoria Press, Co-Op (for CPR employees), and numerous church groups—with assets totaling $2,500,000.

And, in my estimation, they have good cause today to be rejoicing in the marking of the 100th milestone on the highway of a movement which encourages saving and leads to the ultimate goal of nice "nest-eggs."

Hope in the Polio Battle

THE story of gamma globulin is a dramatic illustration of co-operative action on an urgent health problem—co-operation that saved lives and mediated suffering.

It is a saga of an effective marshalling of the nation's public health resources to help combat the polio epidemic which assumed serious proportions in Manitoba and earlier in the Yukon, and attacked British Columbia with unusual severity.

Health authorities look forward to the day when an effective vaccine will be available to prevent the ravages of the crippling and killing disease known as poliomyelitis. With the virtual elimination of diphtheria, whooping cough and smallpox as threats to the nation's health and with encouraging progress being made in bringing tuberculosis under control, polio has taken on new prominence as a major public health problem in Canada.

The western provinces, particularly Manitoba and Saskatchewan, were hard hit this year. The epidemic on the prairies before it has run its course, may prove to be one of the worst recorded. In order to cope with this serious outbreak Canada was able to produce the only known preventive agent, gamma globulin, and ensure its equitable distribution.

TRIBUTE TO WORKERS

Hon. Paul Martin, minister of national health and welfare, referred to this in a recent address to the 41st annual meeting of the Canadian Public Health Association in Toronto. He said it was a tribute to the nation's public health workers.

Canadian authorities became interested in the use of gamma globulin for preventing or lessening the severity of paralysis from polio following reports of trials conducted across the border in the United States. Among the reports were those of Dr. W. McD. Hammon of Pittsburgh, who disclosed the results of tests involving some 55,000 children.

He found among the half of the experimental group that received gamma globulin injections an encouraging decrease in paralytic polio cases as well as a significant modification in the severity of the paralysis in those who contracted the disease.

In the light of such evidence, inconclusive as it was, a conference was called in Ottawa last January. The public health and research experts participating agreed that while final judgment should be reserved until more facts were known, every effort should be made to increase the supply of gamma globulin.

The Connaught Medical Research Laboratories in Toronto had the scientific personnel for the job and also had on hand a supply of blood serum stored from the Second World War. Funds were provided out of the national health program, special production facilities were established and the laboratories worked night and day to produce the needed supplies.

To meet the emergency situation the federal government granted more than $150,000 to assist in the production of gamma globulin and to extend research into its value. Mr. Martin has said.

It was agreed that supplies would be made available only through provincial health departments and that allocations would be made by the committee to those areas where polio reached epidemic proportions. The serum was reserved for administration to those in the younger age group who had been directly exposed to paralytic poliomyelitis.

Mr. Martin has warned that many questions concerning the use and effectiveness of the serum remain to be answered. Considerable publicity has been given to its value in modifying the paralysis in an attack of polio, but the use of the blood fraction is still in the experimental stage and there is as yet little justification for undue optimism.

MOST EFFECTIVE

The serum in the light of our present knowledge is the most effective weapon the medical profession possesses in the fight against polio. Plans are now under discussion with provincial health authorities to undertake an expanded production program next year and the Canadian Red Cross will be called upon to provide blood through its blood service. It is hoped to double the output of the serum.

Meantime the research workers are well aware that it only provides a degree of protection for a limited time—possibly five weeks at the best. A more lasting immunizing agent for polio must be developed. The answer lies in providing protection through a vaccine that will confer lasting immunity. Only then will polio be controlled.

REGINA (CP)—M. F. Allore, manager of the Saskatchewan government insurance office since it was set up in 1945, has resigned, Provincial Treasurer C. M. Fines announced Wednesday.

Mr. Fines said Mr. Allore is setting up an insurance and re-insurance brokerage firm in Vancouver.

Mr. Allore and Mr. Fines were central figures last spring in investigations into charges of "seeret commissions" paid on business Mr. Allore allegedly contracted through the firm of Financial Agencies Ltd., managed by Joseph Oliver Rawluk.

The charges were denied by both Mr. Allore and Mr. Fines. After five weeks of hearings, the legislature's Crown corporations committee reported the "kickback" accusations were "wholly unwarranted and unfounded."

but increasing cloudiness is expected tonight.

MONTREAL (CP)—Three youths were released Wednesday night from Montreal's Bore-deaux jail on a writ of habeas corpus. They had been held two months for stealing a ballot box in the Aug. 10 federal election. The three were sentenced Aug. 11 to one year each in jail on the charge. A fourth youth, also sentenced to a year, appealed and appeal court upheld his contention that the judge who sentenced them had no jurisdiction because an amendment to the Canada Electoral Act, under which the charge was laid, states accused must be tried before a jury in such a case. A petition for a writ of habeas corpus to free the other three was granted Wednesday by Mr. Justice Andre Demers of Superior Court.

Island Digest

NANAIMO—City waterworks department has been working for some weeks on repairs to an 18-inch main that has broken in several places.

The breaks are regarded as the natural outcome of long-time service of the main.

PARKSVILLE—Funeral services were scheduled for 2:30 p.m. today for David Charles Robson, 17, only son of Capt. and Mrs. E. C. Robson, who was killed Sunday in a hunting accident near here.

Born in Vancouver, he spent several years on Salt Spring Island before coming here with his parents three years ago.

DUNCAN—Directors of the Vancouver Island Dairyman's Association will meet here Friday to discuss plans for their conference with the B.C. Milk Board in Ladysmith next Wednesday at 2 p.m.

They will make recommendations regarding milk sale regulations, and are expected to discuss the granting of a milk quota on Vancouver Island for mainland producers, most contentious issue accompanying the decontrol of milk prices above the producer level.

NANAIMO—L. B. H. D. Collett, R.C.A. South Wellington, is due to arrive home today after 12 months of service in Japan and Korea with the 25th Infantry Brigade.

DUNCAN—City council has decided to appoint Lieut. Col. A. C. Sutton, stipendiary magistrate here, to replace G. A. Tisdale, who retired recently as magistrate of the juvenile and small debts courts.

Confirmation of acceptance from Col. Sutton, and permission of the attorney-general, are yet to be received.

CAMPBELL RIVER—Village commissioners will remind Public Works Minister P. A. Gagliardi of the provincial government's "promise" to build curbs in the busy part of the village. The commission will finish the job by laying sidewalks if and when the curbs are completed.

CAMPBELL RIVER—Canadian Legion branch here has prepared resolutions for B.C. Command deploring provincial government action in granting Doukhobors the right to vote, and criticizing the government for withholding benefits of the VLA from Korea veterans unless in receipt of pension.

Legion members claimed the Korean "vets" should be treated the same as veterans of the Second World War.

DUNCAN—Five special constables will be sworn by the city council for service on Halloween in the event that residents attempt to celebrate too violently.

Tourists Criticize Saskatchewan Cafes

REGINA (CP)—On a per capita basis, United States tourists spent three times as much money in Saskatchewan this summer as Canadians, the tourist branch of the bureau of publications announced today.

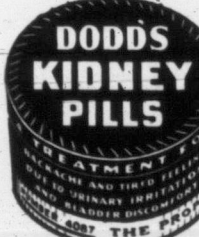

The bureau said the average spent by Americans was $80. Comments from visitors indicated there were more complaints on tourist accommodation this year than in 1952 with major criticism levelled against restaurants.

DOGS TO DIET IN FORT GARRY

WINNIPEG (CP)—Dogs are dieting in suburban Fort Garry. Town council is considering a by-law which says dogs over 25 pounds must stay at home unless under adult control.

By-law sponsor Robert Hunter says big dogs start more fights and cause more harm than small dogs.

Trouble is most Fort Garry dogs are cocker spaniels. Their proper weight? Twenty-five pounds.

Manitoba Cuts Work-Week In Government Institutions

WINNIPEG (CP)—Provincial Secretary Edmond Prefontaine has announced that about 1,100 Manitoba government institutional workers will get a 44-hour week, a reduction of four hours from their present work week.

He said the government will attempt to implement the new schedule by April 1, 1954. However, if additional employees, such as nurses, are difficult to obtain it may take longer to put all institutions on the shorter week.

The institutional category takes in nurses and attendants in mental hospitals and sanatoria, guards and attendants in jails and juvenile homes and workers in government powerhouses.

Too Few Dentists, Too Many Toothaches

SASKATOON (CP)—A royal commission on rural life was told today there is a "distressing shortage" of dentists in the farming districts of Saskatchewan, chiefly because of lack of security.

The council of the College of Dental Surgery, University of Saskatchewan, where the commission is sitting, said in a brief the dentist-population ratio in Saskatchewan is one to 3,730. This compared to one to 2,686 for the whole of Canada and one to 2,073 for Ontario.

Army Pay Corps Vets Meeting in Calgary

CALGARY (CP)—Delegates from all parts of Canada, including three major generals, have poured into Calgary for the seventh annual convention of the Royal Canadian Army Pay Corps Association today and Friday.

The RCAPC Association is a civilian group which largely affects the well-being of the pay system of the Reserve Army. Included in the 60 delegates, visiting members and friends who are expected to attend meetings in the garrison sergeants' mess, Mewata armories; are Maj-Gen. Sir C. N. Peter Bednall, paymaster-in-chief of the British Army; Maj-Gen. B. E. Sawyer, chief of finance of the U.S. Army; and Maj-Gen. W. H. S. Macklin, adjutant-general of the Canadian Army.

Equal Pay Bill Held 'Let Down' For B.C. Women

But Critics Stand
To Record 'Yeas'

British Columbia's women have been "let down pretty badly" by the provincial government's equal pay for equal work law, Bruce Brown (Lib., Prince Rupert) said in the Legislature Wednesday night.

He levelled the criticism as a bill to ensure fair remuneration to women workers was given final reading by the House.

Members of the Business and Professional Women's Club, who came to the House to hear the debate, were treated to some sharp argument by the lawmakers before the bill received final reading.

CCF and Liberal members opposed sections of the bill, and the government defeated five CCF amendments.

When it was all over, though, the opposition parties stood up to support the bill. Premier Bennett called for a standing vote.

The amendments were designed to make the bill enforceable and plug obvious loopholes through which employers could get out from under, CCF members stated.

One of the chief CCF amendments would have allowed the same pay for men and women doing work "of comparable character."

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks said the government couldn't accept the amendment because it was inconsistent with the act's title.

The amendment would have substituted the clause giving women workers the same pay as men for the "same work done in the same establishment."

The amendment, it was contended, would effectively prevent employers from getting around the law by claiming two jobs weren't "exactly" the same.

"The phrase 'same work' will make the bill utterly useless. It will have no effect at all," said Liberal Leader Art Laing.

TORONTO (CP)—Lung cancer is on the increase in both North America and Europe, the Toronto branch of the Canadian Cancer Society was told Wednesday.

Dr. John F. W. King, director of professional service for the American Cancer Society, said researchers are studying the effect of air pollution in lung irritation.

He said also that research has shown lung cancer is 10 times as common among heavy smokers as among non-smokers.

Communist Influence in Unions Was Never Less, Says Reuther

VANCOUVER (CP)—Walter Reuther, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, said today the few remaining Reds in the labor movement must be "out-worked, outfought and out-voted."

Mr. Reuther arrived here after a 15-hour plane trip from Detroit to be featured speaker Wednesday at the International Woodworkers of America convention.

Influence of Communists in trade unions "has never been less," he said at a press conference. "It has been reduced to an all-time low."

But he said local union officers must continue to be on guard against Reds. "You've got to out-work them, outfought them, out-vote them, get there earlier, and stay there later to beat them. We've proved this in the CIO."

He said he believes Canadian and American workers should continue to drive for higher wages in 1954 "because we haven't yet reached a satisfactory solution of the distribution of production."

His own union, the United Automobile Workers, he said, intends to press for a guaranteed annual wage when their contract re-opens in 1955.

Just turn the ignition key to start the engine and you're ready to go.

You'll find you get more power on less gas

Here's all the power and performance you could ever ask for. And along with it comes the most important gain in economy in Chevrolet history! That's because Chevrolet's two great valve-in-head engines are high-compression engines. In Powerglide® models, you get the most powerful engine in Chevrolet's field — the new 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame". Gearshift models offer you the new 108-h.p. "Thrill-King" engine.

You'll discover it's the lowest-priced line

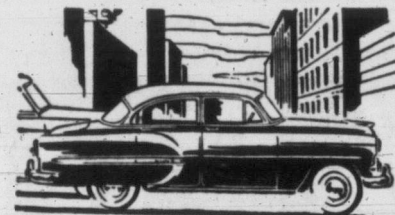

A demonstration will show you that Chevrolet offers just about everything you could want. Yet it's the lowest-priced line in the low-price field. So what's the point in paying more — today and over the months ahead? You can be ahead in every way with a new Chevrolet!

*Combination of Powerglide automatic transmission and 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" engine optional on "Two-Ten" and Bel Air models at extra cost.

You can even get Power Steering

Just like the highest-priced cars, Chevrolet offers you the amazing convenience of Power Steering on all models. You ought to try Power Steering to see how easy driving can be. Even standing still, you can spin the wheel with one finger! Yet there's nothing new to learn and you actually have safer control under all conditions. It's optional, of course, at extra cost.

You get greater getaway with the new Powerglide®

A lot finer performance on a lot less gas. That's what you get with the new Powerglide automatic transmission. Now you're automatically in "low" range for standing starts and for quick passing in city traffic. Then — automatically again — you slip smoothly into "cruising" range as you pick up speed. There's no finer or more advanced automatic transmission at any price.

Jumbo-Drum brakes give you smoother, easier stops

You'll feel safe and secure with these greatly improved Chevrolet brakes under your foot. An easy nudge on the brake pedal brings smooth, positive response — right now! With their 11-inch drums, Chevrolet brakes are extra large for extra safety. Bonded brake linings last up to twice as long as the more common riveted type.

Election Day School Holiday, Bands Urged to Bring Vote Out

Liberals Alone in Opposing Dropping Of Alternative Voting System for B.C.

Glamorizing of election day in an effort to destroy apathy on the part of voters was suggested in the Legislature Wednesday by CCF Leader Arnold Webster.

The government, he said, should investigate ways and means to make election day a big day in everybody's life.

Possible step to arouse the populace might be declaration of a school holiday and playing of bands, he said.

E. E. Winch (CCF, Burnaby) didn't agree with the bands, but said the school holiday is a sound plan.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett agreed, but didn't commit the government to any action.

Mr. Webster made the statement during the second reading of a bill outlining a new Elections Act. The bill provides for abolition of the alternative voting system, lowering of the eligible voting age to 19, granting the franchise to Doukhobors and reducing the time between the day an election writ is issued and voting day.

LIBERALS OPPOSE

Only the Liberals opposed dropping of the alternative voting plan.

Mr. Webster wholeheartedly supported a return to the "X" system of voting.

"B.C. didn't take to alternative voting because it questioned the motive of those who introduced it," he said. "There was so much plumping and spoiled ballots that the system fell into disrepute."

He thought the eligible vote should be dropped to 18. The opposition leader protested the government's action in cutting the 59-day period, between the day the election writ is issued and voting day, to 38 days.

In such a large province as B.C., he said, it places a hardship on candidates and election workers.

It also gives the government an advantage over other parties in preparing for an election, he added.

He said the CCF will introduce amendments to the bill.

PREMIER CHANGED

Liberal Leader Art Laing said he was "interested" in dropping of the alternative ballot, and noted Premier Bennett once advocated alternative voting.

"I think many people would like to see alternative voting continue," he stated. "I've come to that conclusion in recent weeks after studying the evidence."

He said he'd "hate to think the government is using the voting system as a convenience to suit political whims and expediency."

Dr. Larry Giovando, (PC, Nanaimo), said the move might boomerang on the government. He believed in alternative voting, he said with a smile, because it elected him.

"This may be my swan song," he joked.

Bruce Brown (Lib, Prince Rupert), said candidates should be made to put up a deposit.

Premier Bennett told the House he wanted to "freely admit I've been in favor of alternative voting for many years, and so has my party."

"But we believe in carrying out the people's will. Our liquor bill is a good example of this. I voted 'no' on the liquor plebiscite in 1952 but the majority wanted a change so we are carrying out their wish."

The people, he said, have shown they don't want alternative voting. P.D.s, he added, showed 75 per cent opposed it.

Robert Strachan, (CCF, Cowichan-Newcastle), wanted to know what polls and when.

A radio station poll, the pre-

Bill to Provide Two More Judges On Appeal Court

The B.C. Court of Appeal will be increased from five to seven members.

Legislation allowing the change was introduced in the Legislature Wednesday by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

It also permits the court to sit three, five or seven justices as directed by Chief Justice Gordon Sloan.

The House of Lords, besides having legislative functions, is the final court of appeal for the United Kingdom.

FEWER RECOUNTS FOR B.C. ACT CUTS REQUIRED MARGIN

Election recounts will be few and far between in B.C. under the new Elections Act framed by the government.

An amendment now before the Legislature makes a recount impossible unless the successful candidate has a majority of less than 50 votes.

Previously, there was no limit and any candidate could ask for a recount.

Bruce Brown, (Lib., Prince Rupert), criticized the government in the House Wednesday for not including an explanation of the move in the bill.

Tom Bate (SC, Vancouver-Point Grey), also criticized the 50-vote limit. It should be 100, he said.

"Didn't you discuss that in caucus?" asked Robert Strachan (CCF, Cowichan-Newcastle).

HINT QUAKE TO BLAME FOR WHATSHAN SLIDES

Royal Commission Packs Boots To Examine Site of Hydro Slide

VANCOUVER, B.C. (CP)—Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne, British Columbia Power Commission members and counsel attached to the Royal Commission of inquiry into the Whatshan power plant slides, packed rubber boots and slickers today as the inquiry moved to the site of the mishap.

In the meantime, seismograph records will be checked to determine whether an earth tremor could have caused the mud slides which crippled the power development.

Suggestion which touched off the investigation came from Dr. Henry Cecil Gunning, dean of the faculty of applied science at the University of British Columbia and head of its geology department.

He testified before Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne, heading a royal commission investigation into the slides which hit the Lower Lake project last August 11 and 16.

Dr. Gunning, who went to Whatshan at the request of the B.C. Power Commission on September 27, said: "It might be advisable to check observatory records for earth tremors which have occurred since the tunnel was built."

He said he had found no evidence of any geological phenomenon which could have caused cracking of the two-mile mountain tunnel which let water into the surrounding hillside and contributed to the huge slides.

"The slides could have been caused by natural conditions without additional water leaking from the tunnel," Dr. Gunning said.

"Water seeping from the tunnel could have contributed to the catastrophe and such leakage would have increased the danger."

Mr. Justice Clyne, power commission members and counsel will move the hearing to Whatshan Thursday.

Explosives Land 'Son' in Jail 14 Years

NELSON (CP) — Nick Evdokimoff, a "reborn Son of Freedom" Doukhobor, Wednesday was sentenced to a maximum of 14 years on two charges of illegal possession of explosives.

Evdokimoff was convicted in 1949 on a charge of conspiring to burn a school at Robson, B.C., and was released in December, 1952, on parole.

Alex Popoff, a Crown witness, testified that he found Evdokimoff in tall grass near an abandoned home at Goose Creek, B.C., in the early hours of June 28. Less than two hours later, RCMP witnesses said, they found a gallon jug on the same spot, filled with a gasoline-base substance.

Evdokimoff described himself in court as a "reborn Son of Freedom."

Society Preserves Canada-U.S. Amity, Visitor Maintains

"Organizations such as ours do a great deal to preserve genuine understanding and good feeling between Canada and the United States," said Edward E. Sedgley of Philadelphia.

The supreme regent of the Royal Arcanum order was in Victoria Wednesday night to speak to the Victoria Council 1513 at the Club Sirocco.

Earlier in his Empress Hotel suite Mr. Sedgley explained the aims of his organization which has 50,000 adult members in Canada and the U.S.

"We are one of the oldest fraternal beneficiary societies in North America and in addition to doing a lot of charitable work, our main concern is a life insurance scheme for all our members," he said.

One of the requirements of membership of Royal Arcanum is that every member shall have a minimum of $1,000 home protection.

"We offer reasonable rates of protection at a figure slightly lower than the average offered by life insurance companies," said the supreme regent.

His visit to Victoria is part of a tour he is making of Royal Arcanum councils on the west coast of Canada and the U.S. He is attending a luncheon in Nanaimo today where a new council is being formed, and a dinner in Vancouver this evening.

DOUKHOBORS UNJUSTLY BRANDED

Unrecognized Marriages Deplored By 'Y' Speaker

Doukhobor women who have been persuaded to accept family allowance cheques have been required to register as "unmarried mothers" and their children as the offspring of unmarried mothers, Times news editor Lance Whittaker told the Young Adults of the YMCA Wednesday evening.

Leading a discussion on the Doukhobor problem, Mr. Whittaker told the gathering that the B.C. members of the sect had lacked an articulate advocate since the death of the first Peter (Lordly) Verigin and that their dependence on mystical religious terminology while refusing to enlist the aid of legal counsel, has resulted in widespread misunderstanding by non-Doukhobors.

"Their form of marriage ceremony is just as meaningful to this intensely religious people and child birth outside of wedlock just as abhorrent as to any other Canadian," Mr. Whittaker said. "Yet we have, in effect, insisted that their ceremony had no validity—and must be legalized by a civil ceremony which they, in their turn, refuse to recognize as authoritative."

"I suggest to you that if such reasoning were applied to the marriage ceremony of any other religious denomination in Canada there would be a clamor from coast to coast."

While commending the government for its decision to recognize the Doukhobor form of marriage, the speaker urged that consideration also be given to an extension of the established principle of separate schools to meet the needs of the Doukhobors.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

It may not be generally known, but a tragedy was narrowly averted a week ago Tuesday, the histrionics of the piece taking place in four minutes.

That's how long it took for Eddie Dorohoy of the Cougars to walk into owner Lester Patrick's office and walk out again, his name finally affixed to a Cougar contract.

Yes, Eddie was the culprit who kept the Cougars at bay until the 11th hour—Eddie Dorohoy, the forgotten man of this year's club.

Walker

"Why should I remain a holdout?" he said afterwards. "I didn't get what I wanted, but it won't help me or the club by not playing."

Given the task of coaching the Cougars last year in a surprise move, Eddie didn't succeed, it could be said in fairness to him, only because the Cougars didn't succeed. And conjecture was rife during the off-season that Eddie wouldn't be around Memorial Arena when they doled out "No. 13" again this year. Not that his services wouldn't be appreciated—just that it was believed circumstances being what they were at the time, Eddie would prefer to call some other centre his hockey home.

However, the summer passed and highest on the list of Cougar centres as the season approached was none other than the brazen firebrand.

Yardstick of Performance

In explaining his contract problem, Eddie held nothing back. I measure myself in my worth to the club in the league I am playing, he said, in effect.

On this basis Eddie's services must come high to the Cougars as only Earl Reibel outshone him last year and Earl now has the enviable position of having Ted Lindsay and Gordie Howe beside him to ease his freshman chores with Detroit in the National Hockey League.

But no matter how you hold the negative, the picture always comes out the same. Dorohoy is the equal offensively of any centre in the league at the present time. If he's not then the Cougar stock is lower than one might be led to believe. He was as good as any player on the ice in the exhibition game against New York Rangers and in the first two games of the season was the key to what offense the Cougars displayed.

Sure, Eddie is worth a lot to the Cougars—and probably just as much as he values his services. He led the league in scoring with 87 points in the 1950-51 championship season, finished second to George Agar the following year with 85 points, and last season, harassed with the cares of a cellar-place club, still wound up fourth in the race with 78 points. His all-time record in the league is better than a point a game, a record few others can or will equal as his 281 points in 237 games will testify.

It's Business, But Fun, Too

And this year he's off and running again. The Dorohoy-Colin Kilburn-Andy Hebertson unit could be one of the league's prolific scoring machines, if retained as such.

Much as the little pepper pot may get under the skin of officials, players and even some fans, you've got to give the guy credit. When he steps on the ice he plays to win and he plays to enjoy the game, the true mark of an athlete.

There was never a better example of the courage in his battling spirit than one night last year. His upper lip horribly gashed by a skate cut and with two teeth sheared off as if chipped by a expert stone cutter, the exposed nerves showing, he returned to finish the contest.

Eddie asks few favors and gives less. Let's hand the guy his dues. There are few who deserve them more.

Allie Still 'Not Sure' Of Future as Yankee

OKLAHOMA CITY, (UP)—New York Yankee hurler Allie Reynolds, who sprained his back pitching in the World Series, couldn't say Wednesday whether or not he was through with baseball.

"At my age, it isn't any fun any more," he said. "But he said his back injury could be a deciding factor."

Yankee manager Casey Stengel also left the question up in the air.

The 34-year-old right-hander told the Oklahoma City Star-Examiner today "I'm not sure myself" about going back to the Yankees next season.

"A lot of things enter into it," Reynolds said, "but it's mainly how I come around from this back injury."

Stengel, stopping in Oklahoma City while on a business trip, had nothing but praise for the hurler he has called upon both as a starting hurler and relief pitcher on world championship teams.

"After all," said Stengel, "I'm only the manager. I don't know whether he's going to be able to play. We'll just have to wait and see if he wants to try it again."

He said Reynolds was a "real morale factor" with the Yankees. "During our 18-game streak we had to use him in relief a lot. He's the best there is as a reliever and he'd really pick us up every time he came in."

Cooper's Cars Take Point Titles In Both Big Car, Stock Divisions

Final point standings for both big car and stocks at Shearing Speedway this year were released by the British Columbia Automotive Sports Association Wednesday.

The standings refer not to drivers but to individual cars as in some cases more than one driver handled the same car during the season.

Point standings for drivers have not yet been released. In big car races, Dave Cooper's No. 2 car piled up a season's total of 265½ points for first place and the right to carry the No. 1 tag next season.

Cooper edged out Verne Moore's No. 1 car by only a single point. Moore, whose car was driven for the greater part of the season by Jack Spaulding before transfer of ownership, was 11½ points behind going into the Thanksgiving Day race and almost pulled out the lead by scoring a sweep in the big meet.

Cooper's No. 99 stock car accumulated 260½ points to lead the stockers with Bruce Passmore's No. 48 car second with 223 points. Popular Ken Nelson's No. 15, a strong finisher late in the season, was third with 149 points.

Top 10 cars in both divisions follow:

RACE CAR
1. Cooper (265½); 2. Moore (264½); 3. Kesteven (151); 4. Thomas (144½); 5. Haslam and Heller (131); 6. Verne Bruce (126); 7. Ross Clements (124); 8. Fred Carson (123); 9. Bob Simpson (120); 10. Bill Masterton (109).

STOCK CAR
1. Cooper (260½); 2. Passmore (223); 3. Ken Nelson (151); 4. Bill Nelson (149½); 5. Ray Pottinger (139½); 6. Dick Varley (138½); 7. Mike Newton (138); 8. Mel MacDonald (135½); 9. Carmichael (135); 10. Jerry Bjorklund (125).

What Now, Little Man?

Scrappy Jimmy Gallant, diminutive forward for Victoria V's of the Commercial Hockey League, backs down from no opponent, no matter how big. Here Gallant, centre, appears well hemmed in by Navy bruisers Paul Wannamaker, left, and Ted Audette (3) as Bob Coulter of V's (behind Audette) rides the puck away from the boards. However, just minutes later, Gallant broke away to score the winning goal as V's nipped Navy, 4-3. In second game of opening night, Nanaimo Clippers and Victoria Merchants battled to a 3-3 standoff. (Times photo by Halkett.)

NEW WESTMINSTER 3, EDMONTON 3

New Westminster—Goal: Dechenne, defender; Durham, Bedford, Benson, Mathers; forwards: McNab, Dorohoy, Brilliant, Love, Pashoway, Homenick, Paul, Fairburn, Thomson, Denney. Edmonton—Goal: Hall; defense: Fok, Coffin, Buck, Thibault; forwards: Ullioi, Scisizki, D. Polk, Johnson, Boone, Haley, MacDonald, Hannigan, O'Grady, Hymnak. Referee: Scotty Morrison. Montreal: Lineham: Hank Wilson, Calgary. First period: 1. New Westminster, 1-0; 2. New Westminster, 2-0. Second period: 3. New Westminster, 3-0. Third period: 4. New Westminster, 3-3. Penalties: Haley 1:38, Matthews 16:20. Referee: O'Grady. New Westminster: Thomson 8:55, 6. Edmonton: Coffin 7:51, Scisizki 12:04. Penalties: Fok 11:17.

Now that Edmonton Flyers have finally scored a goal on their home ice, they should be able to take a better aim on the Western Hockey League crown they won last season.

Flyers cracked a goose-egg that had been with them for 128 minutes of hockey in their own arena and went on to score two more goals Wednesday night and earn a 3-3 draw with New Westminster Royals before heading west.

In two previous encounters Edmonton had been blanked 9-0 by Calgary Stampeders and 4-0 by Saskatoon Quakers.

Centre Frank O'Grady was the hero when he completed a break-away by Buddy Boone by beating Lucien Dechenne at the 8:43 mark of the first period. That tied it up at 1-1. Royals' Gordie Pashoway having opened the scoring at 1:25.

O'Grady went on to score another goal in the second period and Hugh Coffin notched the tying marker with seven minutes left in the game.

Max McNab scored for New Westminster in the second period and rookie Len Thomson tallied in the third.

Coffin almost was the goat of the night in the third period when he let Thomson steal the puck from him inside the Edmonton blue line and score a goal, but redeemed himself by ramming in Enio Scisizki's rebound for the equalizer.

Flyers had the best of the play as they peppered 35 shots at Dechenne while Royals sent 27 at Glenn Hall.

Royals wind up their prairie tour at Calgary tonight in the lone WHL action.

HERE FRIDAY

Flyers open a coast swing on Friday, meeting Victoria Cougars at Memorial Arena at 8:30.

Slightly changed from last year's championship club, the Flyers still retain the nucleus of the hard-skating team coach Bud Poile led to the playoff title.

Holdovers included goalie Glen Hall, defenseman Hugh Coffin, Bill Fok; forwards Jim Ullioi, Len Haley, Ching Johnson, Ray Hannigan, Jim Anderson and Jack MacDonald.

Newcomers are defenseman Steve Hymnak who has played with St. Louis Flyers and Chicago Black Hawks; Lawrence Thibault of last year's junior champion Barrie Flyers; Bill Zenituk, up from the Edmonton Oil Kings; Bill Bucyk, also with the Oil Kings last year. Forward Don Poile; is a graduate from Fort William Hurricanes; Enio Scisizki finished out the 1952-53 season with Calgary, and Carl Boone turned pro with St. Louis Flyers last year.

Edmonton's (CP)—Billy Vessels, Edmonton's halfback sensation from Oklahoma, will take his physical examination for the United States Army in November.

He is scheduled to report to a draft board at Great Falls, Mont., Nov. 27, one day before the Grey Cup final in Toronto. Presumably, if Edmonton Eskimos make the final Vessels will be flown to Toronto for the classic on Nov. 28.

Eskimos' coach, Darrel Royal, who accompanied Vessels to Great Falls, Tuesday, came back Wednesday to report that Vessels has been granted permission to take his physical at Great Falls.

Vessels, the second top scorer in the Western Interprovincial Football Union, continued on to Oklahoma City to discuss his status with draft officials there. After a physical the minimum period before induction into the U.S. armed forces is 10 days.

As a Reserve Army Officers Training Corps candidate at the University of Oklahoma, he was given a June, 1954, army report order before he left for Edmonton last summer after spurning the offers of Baltimore Colts, who had made the 1952 single point. Moore, whose car was driven for the greater part of the season by Jack Spaulding before transfer of ownership, was 11½ points behind going into the Thanksgiving Day race and almost pulled out the lead by scoring a sweep in the big meet.

Cooper's No. 99 stock car accumulated 260½ points to lead the stockers with Bruce Passmore's No. 48 car second with 223 points. Popular Ken Nelson's No. 15, a strong finisher late in the season, was third with 149 points.

Merchants Tie Nanaimo; V's Edge Stubborn Navy

Victoria V's 4, Navy 3; Merchants 3, Nanaimo 3
By DENNY BOYD

A little guy, a big guy and a couple of old pappy guys teamed up to make the 1953-54 Commercial Hockey League opener a rollicking success Wednesday night at Memorial Arena.

And the manner in which the individual moments of glory were achieved proved that Commercial League games are never over until the clock registers 15:00.

First of all it was the little guy, effish Jimmy Gallant of Victoria V's. Jim scored the winning goal with just 48 seconds left in the game to give Dick Irving's V's a 4-3 victory over an under-conditioned but hustling Navy club.

And then it was the big guy, gangling Toby Brown, who went Gallant one better, waiting until there were only two seconds left before he fired the goal that gave his Merchants a 3-3 sawoff with the impressive Nanaimo Clippers.

The pappy-type guys were playing coach Eddie Shamlock and Red Carr of Nanaimo, both of whom are vague regarding their age but are believed to have a nodding acquaintance with the life that begins at 40, and plenty of hockey savvy accumulated along the route.

Slender Nanaimo winger Joe Zuback equalized for his club by scoring two second-period tallies, Carr setting up the first and Arnie Duggan the second.

At the nine-minute mark of the last heat, Shamlock measured himself for the hero's mantle by scoring the tie-breaking goal on a play cleverly engineered by Duggan, who was brilliant all night.

However, Shamlock ultimately turned out to be the goat as it was his inaccurate clearing pass in his own defensive zone that Brown colared for the winning goal at 14:58.

Merchants got their first two goals in the last minute of the first period, Ron Bremner backhanding Brown's pass into the net at 14:10 after a sustained Merchant attack and Brown scoring on a fast rush from Joe Evans 40 seconds later.

NHL ROUND-UP

Bruins May Be Rough

By The Canadian Press

Boston Bruins, the giant-killers of last season's National Hockey League playoffs, have ambitions to become giants themselves this season.

The fact that the Bruins are the only unbeaten team in the NHL after a week of activity isn't too significant in itself, since they're played only once while everyone else has had two or three outings.

But the Bruins' debut last Sunday was a resounding 4-1 victory over Montreal Canadiens, the proud Stanley Cup holders who just barely outlasted the underdog Bostonians in the finals last spring.

SAME OLD BRUINS

The team that entertains Toronto Maple Leafs tonight is virtually the same tattered aggregation that barely sneaked into the playoffs last spring and then ousted the first-place Detroit Red Wings in the semifinals before bowing to the Canadiens.

The incomparable Milt Schmidt, now a sedate 35, is back for centre-ice and general spark-plug duties. Thirty-three-year-old Sugar Jim Henry still guards the nets. Defensemen Bill Quackenbush and Hal Laycoe and penalty-killing forward Joe Klukay, all in their 30s, are still around.

The line of Fleming Mackell, Johnny Peirson and Eddie Sandford, which carried the mail in last year's Stanley Cup bid, accounted for two of the opening-night goals against Montreal. A newcomer worth watching is left-winger Doug Mohns, from the Memorial Cup champion Barrie Flyers, who fired a third tally Sunday.

NO MOORE FOR MONTREAL

Meanwhile, Montreal, tied for league leadership with Detroit with two victories in three starts, entertains New York Rangers, who have split their first two games. The Canadiens will go without right-winger Dickie Moore, who probably won't play again before Christmas after suffering a shoulder separation at Boston.

Defenseman Bud MacPherson will make his first appearance of the season in Moore's place.

The Rangers are short left-winger Nick Mickoski, who suffered a bruised hip as they beat Chicago Sunday and will be replaced by rookie Camille Henri, up from the junior Quebec Citadelles. Dean Prentice, another forward, still is recovering from a shoulder separation and will be out for two more weeks.

VICTORIA CLUB GOLF

Mr. and Mrs. D. R. McCall scored a 91-17½—73½ to win the Gibson Cup in the annual mixed foursomes competition at Victoria Golf Club Monday.

Runners-up were Mr. and Mrs. H. Husband with 84-9—75.

Sande Finally Scores; Arcaro Among Victims

NEW YORK (AP)—Earl Sande, riding idol of the roaring '20s who has returned to the saddle at the age of 54, brought home the first winner of his comeback campaign Wednesday.

After nine straight failures, the "Handy Guy" scored in the seventh race at Jamaica aboard a $27.10-for-$2 shot, Miss Weesie. In winning, he beat out the king of modern jockeys, Eddie Arcaro, who was riding the odds-on favorite, Will Be There.

After bringing the T. F. White filly to the winner's circle after the six-furlong race, Sande was all smiles.

"I wish everybody in the world was as happy as I am right now," he said.

The victory drew a loud roar of applause from the stands. Sande's fellow jockeys, including Arcaro, all crowded around to offer their congratulations.

Sande, won three Kentucky derbies in his heyday and who was the leading rider of the fabulous golden era, brought Miss Weesie across the wire a head in front of Arcaro's mount, Piedmont Lass was third.

The aging jockey was breathing hard and appeared tired at the finish.

Earlier in the day he had lost a close decision in the third race, riding Honest Bread to second place behind White Hart in the six-furlong event. White Hart beat out Sande's mount by a head in a photo finish.

THREE GAMES ON WEEK-END SOCCER BILL

Three games are scheduled in Victoria and District Football Association this week-end.

Saturday's single contest at Athletic Park finds Victoria West meeting Wood Motors at 2:30.

Undefeated Canadian Scottish will put their league lead on the block at lower Beacon Hill, Sunday, at 2:30, against second-place Esquimalt, while Henneys will test Civil Service at Athletic Park at the same time.

Brook Job Still Open to Dressen

Final Decision Expected Before Monday; Reese Surprised, But Receptive to Bid

BROOKLYN (AP)—Charlie Dressen, still insisting today he will not return as Brooklyn manager for anything less than a two-year term, may be succeeded by Dodger captain Pee Wee Reese.

Reese, a favorite of Brooklyn president Walter O'Malley and long regarded as a possible future successor to Dressen, indicated strongly he would be receptive to taking over the Dodger reins if they were offered him.

"I always said before that I wouldn't consider a manager's job while I still have some good playing years left," said the 34-year-old star shortstop. "But now this thing... I don't know... Things look a little different now."

REESE SURPRISED

Reese expressed surprise at the failure to rehire Dressen as Dodger manager Wednesday and said he hoped Dressen would return next year.

"I never imagined anything like this would happen," he said. "I don't want to say anything right now that might be misconstrued. Charlie is a great manager and I hope he comes back next year. He did a wonderful job this year. As for myself, I will have to talk with the club before I can say anything. I certainly don't intend to contact them. They will get in touch with me if they want me."

Asked whether he was considering Reese as a possible successor to Dressen, O'Malley said:

"That's something we'll discuss in a week or so. Right now we're going to give Dressen a week to think it over."

WANTED 3-YEAR CONTRACT

Dressen, flushed with two straight National League championships, had demanded a three-year contract for $50,000

BALTIMORE INTERESTED IN DRESSEN

BALTIMORE (AP)—An official of the Baltimore Orioles new addition to the American League, said Wednesday night his club would be "very interested" in talking with Chuck Dressen who quit as manager of Brooklyn Dodgers.

The official was Clyde Y. Morris, secretary-treasurer of the Orioles and a law partner of Clarence Miles, Baltimore civic leader, who was a leader in moving the St. Louis Browns' franchise to the Maryland city.

Morris said, however, he was uncertain whether Dressen might be interested in the position of general manager or field manager, as he was known at Brooklyn.

Dressen indicated in New York he might be interested in Baltimore.

Aces Take Senior 'B' Paddle Lead

Aces beat Panthers 18-13 Tuesday night at Club Sirocco to take over first place in the Senior B division of the Victoria Table Tennis Association.

The victory, second in a row for Aces, gave them a one-point margin over Barrett and Sons who were held to a 9-9 tie with Giants. Paddlers trimmed Rangers 20-12 in the third match of the night.

Top winners were Dave Laing of Paddlers and Dave Chong of Panthers, each with seven victories.

Scores follow:
Paddlers—Art Gamble 8, Joe Lindal 2, Brian Hothe 5, Dave Laing 3. Total—20.
Rangers—Dave Vail 4, George Pearson 6, Margaret Muckle 8, Sybil Irish 2. Total—12.
Aces—Gerry Woods 5, Bob Canova 3, Eric O'Brien 6, Sandra Hightmole 2. Total—16.
Panthers—Dave Chong 3, Art Miller 1, Ross Hamilton 5, Doug Kay 1. Total—13.
Giants—Jim Stewart 4, Jim Bligh 2, Joe Metcalfe 2.
Barrett, Transfer—Ray Barrett 5, Harold Yardley 4, Beverly Gregor. Total—9.

Minor Soccer League Schedule

Bell Gets Hole-in-One

Harry Bell was the guest of honor at Oak Bay Wednesday. Bell became the fifth local golfer to score a hole in one this year when he sank his tee shot on the 150-yard second hole at Victoria Golf Club.

He was playing with Tom Chester, Charles McLaughlin and H. H. Brown.

ST. LOUIS—Dan Bucceroni, 189, Philadelphia, outpointed Jimmy Slade, 177, New York (16).

Nimrods Laud Opening Of Rich Fish-Game Land

COURTENAY.—The opening of the Iron River Gate for hunting members of the Fish and Game Clubs on the upper island by MacMillan and Bloedel has drawn high praise from Courtenay and District Fish and Game members.

Harold Jones, secretary of the association told members the three clubs in Campbell River, Cumberland and Courtenay were voluntarily approached by MacMillan and Bloedel officials who offered to open the country at a special meeting at Fisherman's Lodge at Oyster River and was unanimously agreed by all members to undertake the proposition jointly, also to formulate arrangements for policing the area by game club members.

Mr. Jones explained the clubs will be undertaking no financial responsibilities whatsoever. All that is required from the clubs is to see that permits are issued to Fish and Game members only, provide men to look after the Iron River Gate for checking in and out of holders of permits, patrol the area for fire prevention, to see that no permit holder is violating the terms of agreement with the company as laid down on the permits, and to make sure that no permit holder is left in area over night.

The permits are to be signed by the sportsmen applying for permission to enter and retained by the gate keepers who will turn them over to the company's representative at the end of the week-end period. In case of fire the sportsman is requested to turn the alarm in to the gatekeeper and in turn he will report it to the company.

The gate will be opened at 6 a.m. and sportsmen have to be out of the hunting area by 4 p.m. If any hunter has not come out by 4 p.m. the gatekeeper goes out looking for him. Permits will only be issued to bona fide members of the game club and none others.

Mr. Jones asserted if any member is found and proven to have broken the current game regulations while in the Iron River area he will be immediately expelled from his club and lose his right to get a permit to enter the area.

Mr. Jones suggested that memberships into the game club be closed off one month before hunting season to prevent persons from joining the club just to have the privilege of hunting in these areas.

Mr. G. B. Capes lauded the company and said the club has maintained a high prestige and if it wasn't for this the gates probably would not be opened at all.

The secretary cited a letter to the club from a member in Vancouver who extended congratulations on the wonderful work the club has done in getting the woods opened up for sportsmen this year.

NO FIRST-YEAR PROBLEM, BUT ...

Orioles Would Like Veeck But Some AL Owners Say 'No'

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The new Baltimore Orioles aren't worried about their first season in the American League. They expect to sell around $500,000 worth of tickets by opening day. But they realize they will face trouble the second year unless they have a greatly improved ball club, plus some color, and that was why they made their unsuccessful bid for Frank Lane, whose lavish trading pulled the Chicago White Sox out of the doldrums.

Actually, some of the members of the Baltimore group would have favored bringing Bill Veeck along with his St. Louis Browns franchise, at least for a season or two, because they realize they need such a go-getter and showman to tide them over during the rebuilding process. They know that the attendance record Veeck set at Cleveland in 1948 still stands.

"But we can't sign him," one of them said, "because the group of owners who hate him got it down in writing that we couldn't before they agreed to let us have the franchise."

Bucceroni Hangs On To Decision Slade

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Dan Bucceroni dumped Jimmy Slade for a nine-count in the fourth round and then shook off a vicious comeback by the New York negro to win an unanimous 10-round decision Wednesday night.

Bucceroni, the Philadelphia butcher boy, outweighed Slade by 12 pounds, weighing 189 to Slade's 177.

Both fighters entered the ring hopeful of gaining momentum in their bid for a crack at the heavyweight title. At ringside, waiting to referee a co-feature bout, was Rocky Marciano, the reigning heavyweight king.

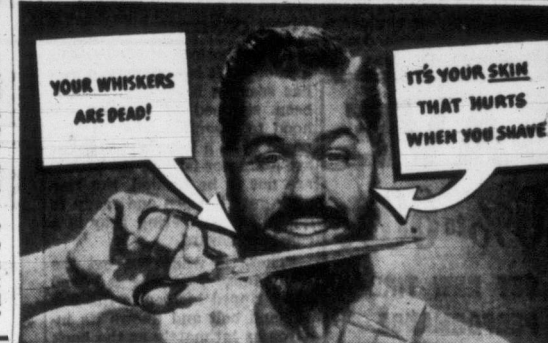

Marciano withdrew as a referee in the televised bout after nine.

strong protests from his manager, Al Weill.

Weill said his fighter should not be in there because Bucceroni is a definite title contender. Instead Marciano refereed another bout between Charley Riley of St. Louis and Bobby Why of Los Angeles.

In the main go the 26-year-old Slade was clipped with a rousing left and dumped with a follow-up right in his own corner in the fourth.

Turned partially on his back with his right leg twisted beneath him, Slade rolled over with his hand on the ropes at seven and pulled up by the time referee Dick Young reached nine.

Contracts 'Essential' Baseball Lawyers Say

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorneys contesting restrictions on organized baseball told the Supreme Court Wednesday that baseball contracts put players in a position "equal to slavery."

They asked that the game be declared a commercial enterprise within the meaning of the nation's anti-trust laws. This would clear the way for court tests of player contracts.

Attorneys for baseball replied that baseball is a sport, not a commercial enterprise, and that therefore the courts have no authority to look into the contracts.

They said the contracts are an

Hot Rod Fans Defend Work

Mechanically-Minded Youths Devote Cash, Time, to Hobby

By DON INGHAM, Times Automotive Editor

Victoria hot rod fans are a little weary of being maligned as "irresponsible, careless and reckless" in regard to the way they operate their hand-built bugs.

"We work hard on our cars," says the hypothetical hot-rodder who hears all the complaints. "We have a lot of time and money invested in them, and will not take chances on 'washing them out' in an accident."

To the impartial observer there are three types of cars on the road today:

The standard car as it came from the factory, where Detroit and Windsor engineers, backed by huge research, design and production facilities, did their best to produce a safe, high-performance, economical and comfortable car.

The "hot rod" is an older car that has been lovingly and carefully rebuilt to increase its motor performance, riding qualities, braking, roadability and appearance. It embodies tested improvements and involves considerable expense.

POOR CONDITION

At the bottom of the scale is a jalopy. It is a rattletrap that has seen its best days, yet has been stripped of fenders and hood to resemble what is supposed to be a hot rod. Chances are its motor is shot, the brakes are not to be trusted, the running gear is worn and ready to die, and the steering gear is a constant hazard.

"There is where we get the bad name," says the lad who has stripped his car to the last nut and bolt and knows its innards as intimately as the back of his hand. "Jalopies should not be confused with hot rods. They are two entirely different things."

The lad who works nights and Sundays to buy a new manifold, carburetors, ignition systems and the other countless parts that will make a car stronger, safer and more powerful feels he is hardly a menace on the road.

He is actually on the road very little. His car is his hobby, and he spends probably 10 hours of "monkey wrenching" to one hour of driving.

SERIOUS TINKERING

Like the yachtsman who constantly alters his rig to gain the last half knot of speed, the hot-rodder does his tinkering on his car.

According to the serious youth who has built his own car, he can raise his horsepower from, say, 100 to 125.

"That is little, considering that a man with $8,000 can go down to Yates Street and buy himself a car with a 200-horsepower motor that will leave me far behind," he says.

To which the man with $8,000 answers that "if I have managed to accumulate $8,000 I can afford to invest in a car, I probably have enough sense to know how to drive it."

"We like cars, we know them, we enjoy tinkering with them and making them better," says the genuine auto fan. "But please don't call our cars jalopies. They are nothing but cheap copies of the good cars we have built."

1.—INSPECTING. Tires are placed on a "spread" and examined inside and out.

2.—BUFFING. Careful buffing forms a rough surface for the laying of new rubber.

3.—APPLYING. A heavy layer of new rubber is applied to the spread after a layer of Goodyear vulcanizing cement is applied.

4.—MEASURING. Over-all measurements are taken after the new rubber is applied as a guide in adjusting the Lodi mould for proper tread width.

5.—ADJUSTING. Tire measurements and Lodi operating charts tell exactly the "mechanical" adjustments for accurate tire "set" and tire.

AUTOMOTIVE NEWS

Victoria-Built Roadster Model for Series

Car above was model for description in accompanying article by Jack Smith. Powered with Pontiac motor, it weighs 1,850 pounds, performs according to requirements listed in text. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

SAFER MOTORING

Make Preparations For Chassis Welding

INSTALMENT 6

The chassis we are going to describe is the one used in the car in the accompanying picture. Its chief features are good cornering, lightness and the possibility of putting the seat and side frame members very low.

You can reach out and touch the ground when sitting in the seat.

Parts you will require are:

1. The side rails of a 1926-30 Chevrolet.

2. One Ford model A front axle I-beam and radius rods, and spring with shackles.

3. One pair of model A rear radius rods.

4. The ring ends of two worn out tubular shock absorbers and eight cone-shaped rubber bushings for them.

four 3" by 1/2" bolts with two nuts, and two plain washers for each.

Model T Springs

5. Two pairs of model T spring shackles (rear), two model T rear spring perches, and one model T rear spring.

Remove alternate short leaves until only six leaves remain.

6. Model A roadster body from fire wall back, including rear fenders.

7. Two Austin Bantam or other front fenders.

8. One 1928 or thereabouts Essex radiator. (It is short in height, has big water capacity and deep core.)

9. Two bucket seats and one sheet of five-ply for floor and seat back.

10. One old overhead valve Pontiac, less body. (Engine bonnet and headlamps can be used.)

As considerable welding is going to be needed, try to make arrangements for it before you start.

This chassis will take a V-8, Chev, GMC, or almost any motor.

Strip Old Frame

• Airl now to work.

Strip the side members of all nuts, bolts, and rivets. The front of your new frame will start at the highest point of the side rails (a point directly over the rear axle on the original four-cylinder Chev).

Lay side rail flat down on the floor and put a long board up against bottom of frame. Take a square from edge of board and mark and cut side rail off square at its highest point (directly over the position of the original axle).

Measure off 90 inches of frame and cut off the dumbirons. Lay one side rail on the other and cut them so they will be identical. The two dumbirons from the frame will now be cut off equally to make a cross member by welding together.

The larger ends of the cross-member and the frame ends now are cut at over 45 degrees, and welded on the front face only. The frame is to be 22 inches wide at the front end.

Measure back 36 inches from the cross member and insert a 36-inch piece of wood 2" by 4" by springing the welded joint at the front. Now heat the top and bottom flanges of the frame at the 2-by-4, and pull inward until the side members are parallel and 36 inches apart. Take a hammer and dolly and keep flattening the wrinkles at the bend as you go along.

Install Ford T rear spring with clips pointing upward. Two pieces of iron rod or bar should be welded into clip so as to reach up into cross member and grip the now thinner spring.

Cut off the front radius rods where the solid part of the wishbone knob ends and weld a shock eye end on each. As the radius rods will be slanting in toward the frame, these will be welded at an angle so as to be parallel to the frame.

Auto Plants Holding Line On '54 Prices

Automobile manufacturers have held the line to a great extent on their 1954 models, and in the United States have managed a few price reductions.

Hudson has marked down its three Wasp models by about $54 south of the border, and its two "hardtops" are lower by $107.

Dodge prices closely parallel those of 1953 where the models are comparable. Reductions have been made in the Coronet V-8 sport coupe, convertible and two-door station wagon.

A price reduction of $56 on four models of the Hillman Minx has been announced by Rootes Motors (Canada) Ltd. in Toronto.

COMPETITION RETURNS

It applies to the sedan, convertible, estate car and Commer delivery van.

Last fall auto makers were expecting what was heralded as the keenest competitive year since the war. Prices were the subject of speculation, and each manufacturer's list was studied closely as soon as it was made public. A hold-the-line policy was apparent from the start.

U.S. dealers found the first six months of 1953 to be a breakneck sales and production race that left some of the independents winded and cooled the enthusiasm of even the larger producers.

Now a competitive market is an accepted fact.

TRUSTEES, TEACHERS MOVE TOWARD BASIC WAGE SCALE

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—British Columbia appears to be moving slowly but steadily toward a province-wide basis for school teachers' salaries.

This has been evident throughout B.C. School Trustees' Association convention at Nelson, where top executives of the trustees and the B.C. Teachers' Federation have been in session repeatedly in closed sessions.

Present indication is that the two groups will endeavor to set up a province-wide basic scale, from which there will be variations dictated by differences in living costs and conditions; and variations hinged upon premiums for special qualifications or services.

Anything and Everything On Sale at Kin Auction

A diamond-studded wrist watch and a hundred bags of cement... these are two of the diverse items that go under the Kinsmen auctioneer's hammer at the club's annual charity auction Dec. 10.

Chairman Cec Fletcher says response has been good to the club request for donations of goods to offer. But much more is needed. About $4,500 in stock is already collected.

There is a car, an electric stove, an outboard motor, new shoes and clothing, a floor-laying job or a roofing job, a coffee table and a refrigerator.

Goods will be displayed at National Motors showrooms 10 days prior to the sale to allow advance bidding. As well as reserve bids, telephone bids will be taken over a battery of phones installed for the event.

Radio communication will be maintained with bidders standing on the street, who are unable to crowd into the showrooms. The auction will last from 7 p.m. until midnight.

Donors should contact Cec Fletcher at his home or at his Yates Street store.

Mark Twain once told the story about a Blue Jay so energetic he filled an abandoned shack in the woods with acorns. Got it just about overflowing, too, just by saving up systematically—putting something away, little by little, until it grew into a lot!

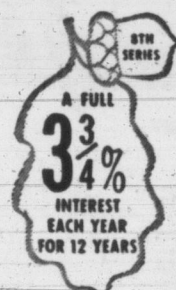

That's a pretty fair policy for any of us to follow. Acorns wouldn't do you much good. But, if you stored up Canada Savings Bonds, you'd be in pretty good shape to meet whatever turns up tomorrow... to handle any financial upsets — perhaps to enjoy yourself the way you'd like while you're still able to sit up and take notice!

A few dollars every payday will get you Canada Savings Bonds on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Or, by instalments through your bank or investment dealer. You'll never miss the money that way. And you'll be pleasantly surprised just how fast you can build up a tidy little nest egg that earns you good interest. ## BESSIE IN JAPAN turtles, basking in the afternoon sun.

"We go now!" he tossed out from the shadow of his big hat. Seito solemnly nodded his head.

Kofukui... meaning "revelation of happiness"... was "next stop". One of the seven great temples of Nara, it was founded at Kyoto in 689 AD. Moved to Asuka in 698 AD and then to the new capital of Nara in 710 AD.

The five-storied pagoda in the temple grounds, first built in 730 AD has been destroyed by fire, five times. Present structure, perfect in its graceful lines and smudged sepia and white colors, its a more baby... built in 1426; but so precious to Japan that it has been listed... with practically every other shrine and temple in Nara as "Important Cultural Property."

Sanjo merely said, when he dropped my rickshaw poles...

"Very old building!" Next we went to Nara Park to see the deer; but first we bought small cakes to feed them, from a group of vendors at the entrance gate, which was marked by a graceful torii of red cinnabar.

"Have picture taken with deer... bring you happiness for life," Sanjo explained as we jogged along.

We were in a wooded parkland of huge Japanese cedars, oaks, wisterias and cherry trees; and in their shade roamed the tame deer.

Horn Calls Deer

Each day, when the sun goes down, a priest sounds a long note on an ancient horn made from deer antler and the animals come to a central compound for the night. In mid-October, their horns are cut in a special ceremony marked by a sort of festival that is very popular in Nara.

Then the townsfolk make curries from the horns and sell them in the park and in small stores in the town.

Before the war, Sanjo told us, there were "many deer"; but poor feed and neglect killed them off and today "very small lot."

"Very sacred!" he said. "Priests say no one hurt!" Then, as we jogged along, he told us the story of a lad who was cruel to a deer, long years ago. He was beheaded, he said. Priests made a statue of that boy and set it up under the trees in the park, so all the people who looked at it would remember... "no hurt!"

We meandered on past a spot where a community picnic was in progress, a baseball diamond with young Japan out in full force. We found young couples strolling hand in hand...

...a lad playing a flute, as he sat with his sweetheart on a sunny hillside; another lad sitting on his heels, looking dreamily into a quiet pond.

Lanterns of Stone Finally along a roadway, flanked by hundreds of stone lanterns, we came to Kasuga Shrine.

The lanterns are lighted three times a year, Sanjo said. During the annual festival in February, again in August, and at the New Year.

"You come then... very happy time!" he said. The rickshaws stopped. "Walk here!" he said. "I go with you!"

Walking under another large torii we found Heiden (offering hall) dating from 859 AD and Naoraiden (entertainment hall) of the same date, in which many ceremonies are still performed. Then Kasuga itself... four shrines surrounded by a gallery supported by many pillars of red cinnabar. (Red and gold show the Chinese influence in temple structure and architecture. Pure Japanese... and there is much of it in Nara... shows no high coloring, only the weathered brown of good woods, mellowed tile roofs and perhaps a touch of white in walls and rice paper windows.)

Near the main shrine is an immense Japanese cedar tree and partly hidden behind it the Utushidono (transfer hall) with its many bronze lanterns; where divine spirits are temporarily transferred when repairs are being made to the main shrine.

Dance for $3

In the same compound is Kaguraden (sacred dance hall) constructed in 1135. Two temple girls, wearing white blouses, cinnabar red divided skirts, lotus flowers made of peeks and silver in their black hair, were in attendance. They each carried a branch from the sacred sakaki tree, a fan and a number of small silver bells. And they would dance for you in the sacred hall for one thousand yen (about $3.00).

But now we could hear faintly in the distance a mellowed note wafted over the trees with a mesmeristic insistence.

"Be-e-g bell!" Sanjo said. "You come!"

He was an artist of sorts with a thought for dramatic effect. So we must walk... along a wooded path, beside a lake... then down a long flight of stone steps, worn and hollowed by time and many feet... into a courtyard where, under a weathered roof of mellowed wood, we found the bell.

10 Yen Per Clang

Grey-robed priests were in attendance and for a sum of 10

yen could swing the wooden log against the side of the bell to hear it ring; or stand beneath the great flanged lip and listen to the mellowed sound that somehow for me, had a note of great tolerance for the frailties of human nature.

The bell was first cast in 752 AD, damaged in a typhoon 200 years later and completely recast in the 12th century.

Seiot brought the rickshaws down to us and now we were ready for the Diabutsu... Great Buddha.

I had seen pictures of this colossal bronze statue... I had read that it was of an immense size. But nothing prepared me for the surprise of looking up into the dim shadows of the great shrine building and gazing more than 70 feet above at the Great Buddha. I felt like a leaf below a huge oak tree.

The squatting bronze image rests on a bronze lotus flower that is nine feet, 11 inches high. The wooden temple structure that houses it is 155 feet in height and with a frontage of 288 feet and a depth of 169 feet.

Commenced in 645 AD, it took one year to construct the mold, four years to cast, another year to remove the mold and polish the image, and another year to complete it.

Since then, the head has been shaken off several times by earthquakes. It has been melted off by fire and then recast as has the right hand. The building that houses the image has been destroyed by fire several times.

Completion of each new repair job has been marked by fitting ceremonials that include "putting the pupil in the eyes of the Buddha," which signifies that the image is fully restored.

And, from the first ceremony, in 752 AD to the present, the same brush and ink cake, carefully preserved by succeeding generations of priests, has been used for this ceremony.

"Many more shrines..." Sanjo said, when we came quietly out into the sunshine again. But we shook our heads. There could be no anticlimax!

So we jogged back to Nara Hotel.

"You come again when cherry blossoms here!" Sanjo urged. Seito nodded solemnly, as softly in our ears!

Inhalator Saves $2,000 Cow

DUNCAN—A grateful bossy is reported to be saving her richest milk daily for members of the Duncan Volunteer Fire Department who saved her life with an inhalator.

Mayor J. C. Wragg told the story at a city council meeting. According to the mayor, a $2,000 cow sickened during the Cowichan Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition last month.

and several veterinarians gave her on-half hour to live. The mayor heard of the incident, and suggested the fire department give the cow oxygen with its inhalator.

The firemen arrived, and gave the jaded animal a few huge whiffs of life-giving oxygen. Within 10 minutes she was on her feet.

Dartmouth College, Hanover, N.H., was founded in 1769.

VANISHED FIVE-YEAR-OLD OBJECT OF GREATEST HUNT IN CITY HISTORY

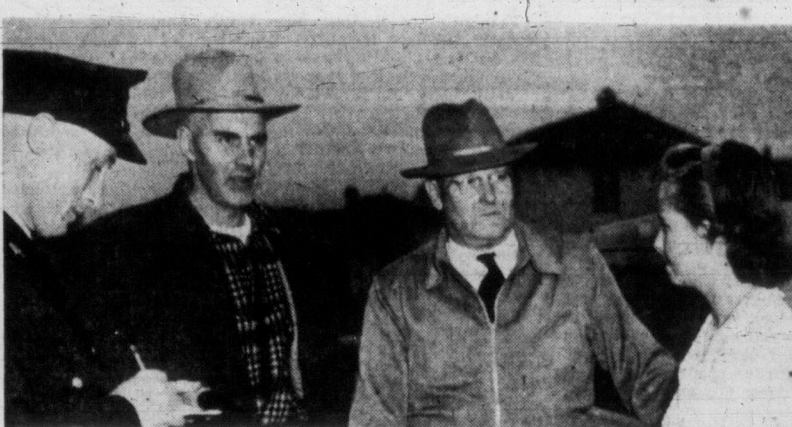

In city's greatest hunt in history, stemming from disappearance of five-year-old Richard Poole, who vanished from his Hillside area home Wednesday night, nearly 200 volunteers from HMCS Naden joined in the search early today. Here they comb Bowker Creek area in concentrated quest in a partially built-up brush and wooded region more than a mile square, near Burton and Doncaster. (Times photo by Strickland.)

"HE WENT THAT WAY," said three-year-old Gary Thompson, playmate of Richard, pointing in direction of Mount Tolmie. Covering every possibility, searchers scoured broom-covered slopes without success.

Word that Richard "Dickie" Poole, five, was missing Wednesday night brought full facilities of city and area police forces into swift action. Constable Nobby Clarke, left, takes notes while Deputy Police Chief Harry Mercer and Inspector Perris Atkinson question last person known to have seen the boy, Patsy Graham, 12, of 1615 Clawthorpe.

MOTHER OF LOST LAD, Mrs. Theima Poole, was at search scene, could offer little assistance. She has not had little boy for six months. When she and father of boy separated, Richard, went to foster home.

Wismer Explains Deal On Salt Spring Timber

Committee Calls Former Minister

Salt Spring Island's Mount Maxwell Park Board had no more authority to sell timber on Mount Bruce Park than it would have to sell the post office, Gordon Wismer, former attorney-general, told the Legislature's forestry committee today.

He said, however, the board had acted in good faith and apparently misinterpreted advice given it by the provincial forestry department.

Mr. Wismer appeared before the committee to explain the background to the complicated case.

E. T. Kenney, former lands and forests minister, also was asked to appear but did not show up.

The committee is investigating the sale of some timber in 1951 by the Mount Maxwell board to the QLK Logging Company. It was later sold to Mohan Singh of Victoria. The government stopped the logging when partially completed.

AGREEMENT DRAWN

Mr. Wismer explained that the government of the day had drawn up an agreement to settle the matter to the satisfaction of all parties. The agreement was to be presented to the 1952 session of the Legislature for ratification. But that session didn't pass many bills because of the break-up of the Coalition government and the government was defeated in the next election.

Mr. Wismer said the government was faced with the situation of what to do—sue Mount Maxwell board, which would have ruined the board, or sue Mohan Singh, who had acted in good faith.

He said the settlement agreement was framed in consultation with all interested parties.

"It was thought this was the proper way to deal with the matter. I signed the agreement."

He recalled with a smile the session to which the agreement was intended to be presented was what was called a "do-nothing session—a lot of talk and no work."

It wasn't my fault the bill (ratifying the agreement) wasn't passed.

He considered the whole thing "a routine matter which went through my department."

"I want to make it clear I'm not shifting any responsibility. I signed the agreement and I thought it reasonable."

'Glad To Be Out of It'

Former Attorney-General Gordon Wismer, in town for meeting of Legislature's forestry committee, took time out to visit legislative chamber. Above, he looks at his old seat in the House with Ernie Spence, attendant. Mr. Wismer has no pangs of regret about being out of politics. "I'm having fun in my law practice," he said.

Friday Deadline Out In Chest Canvassing

Delays experienced by industrial-commercial canvassers in the $210,686 Community Chest Drive here likely will carry the campaign well over the deadline originally set for Friday, it was announced today by campaign chairman, Courtney Haddock.

Oak Bay council has made a $450 donation to the Greater Victoria Community Chest campaign, it was announced today by campaign chairman Courtney Haddock.

He said that the official donation by the municipality is added acknowledgement of the importance of civic organizations of the Chest. He hoped that other municipal bodies in the area would "follow suit."

He emphasized the fact that the extension is not necessary because returns aren't up to expectations.

"On the contrary," he said, "we are amazed by the results so far."

Mechanical delays in arranging and setting up the system of payroll deduction, which has been overwhelmingly accepted by contributors in the area, have slowed the returns.

"Only 10 per cent of the industrial-commercial canvass has been completed," he stated. "It is not a one-call proposition. It is important that managers, department heads and employers make an extra effort to facilitate the canvasser's task."

He added that a top-level meeting of Community Chest officials would take place tonight and a statement would probably be issued Friday, officially prolonging the collection period.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Are white carrots usable as human food, and are they as nourishing as the red?—A.C.

A.—The white carrot, generally known to agricultural experts as the field carrot, is grown only to an extremely limited extent in B.C. and is used almost exclusively as livestock feed, though farmers usually produce mangels for that purpose. It has nutritional value, but is not so high in carotin content as the other type and is coarser in texture and less tasty.

Q.—Can you tell me the value of a silver penny, Queen Victoria maundy money?—J.T.L.

A.—Queen Victoria died in January, 1901. Thus her last distribution of maundy coins or money, 1d, 2d, 3d and 4d pieces, was about 50 years ago. This half-century would seem to make the coins of some value. The maundy money, however, differs from separate coins of various dates in that collectors usually desire each set of four coins to be complete.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

The T. Eaton Co., Victoria, is circulating a flyer to advertise its current crop of extra values.

On page nine of the flyer appears this item: "Useful automobile fog lights—just what you need when Vancouver gets misty."

At a rough guess, I would say it sometimes gets pretty misty right there in the T. Eaton Co. advertising department.

A rather disturbing item appeared on page one yesterday.

"ATOMIC BLAST SOON."

"SYDNEY, Australia (UP)—Britain may explode an atomic weapon in the centre of Australia some time within the next two days, it was reported here today."

Come now, chaps. Hardly sporting, what? And in the same year you won the ashes. I mean to say, really. . . .

I see where six of the Totem theatre players feel they'll have to quit unless they are paid for acting.

Can't understand this narrow-minded attitude. I have always been told that, in the theatre (pronounced the-ah-tuh) the play's the thing.

But possibly the unfortunate six are finding it impossible to break the insidious habit of eating.

Perhaps one reason the Totems are finding it tough going in Victoria is the number of counter attractions, for which no charge is made.

A theatre can hardly match the entertainment value of sleepless legislators voting on bills which they haven't read and wouldn't understand if they had.

And there is rich irony in a situation where a legislator is given two hours or more in which to talk of trivia, and about two seconds flat in which to consider the expenditure of taxpayers' millions.

I am glad the Totem Theatre is going to try out comedies for the next four weeks, but I'm afraid the theatrical actors can never be as funny (in a sad sort of way) as the legislative actors.

It appears some time will lapse before the first drinks-by-the-glass emporia are in operation.

In view of the trend towards ever more taxation on potables, this is just as well.

Earnest drinkers can start right now to put a little aside out of each pay-check.

If it is several months before the bars are opened, a careful man may be able to save up enough to buy a couple of short beers.

Ah, well, at least we in B.C. will be able to boast that we drink the most expensive water in the world.

Members of the Thunderbird Toastmasters evaluated Camosun members' speeches, directed by Deputy Governor Jack Gillis.

Among other capable speakers, was Walter Johnson, who described a Portland children's hospital. Colin Fensham directed table topics.

Trial was set for Mitchell Reiterberger for Wednesday, October 21, when he pleaded not guilty in police court this morning to driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol. He was released on $250 cash bail or $300 bond. He was arrested while driving on Douglas Street Wednesday.

Remanded without plea until Friday, October 23, was an 18-year-old youth who made his second appearance in police court today on the charge of rape of a 40-year-old woman early Wednesday morning in the Central Park area.

He had been remanded from Wednesday when he said he wished to obtain counsel.

Charged with theft under the value of $25, Richard M. Jessup was remanded for sentence in city police court this morning.

The arresting police officer testified that the accused had admitted to siphoning five gallons of gas from a car in a city service station, on September 26.

Magistrate H. C. Hall asked for a probation officer's report.

Preliminary hearing of the case against city real estate salesman, Robert H. Allen, charged with indecent assault and impersonating a police officer, was conducted in city police court this morning.

Present to give evidence was a 13-year-old girl. Magistrate H. C. Hall ordered that the case be heard in camera.

Allen was remanded for further hearing Friday.

Community Chest officials reported today that employees and the firm of B.C. Cement have turned over a total of $1,100 to the Red Feather drive.

Earlier, this donation was given in error as $150.

Totem Theatre needs $10,000 by Saturday if it is to keep its company of actors intact.

If backing to that extent is not guaranteed by Saturday night, six of the performers will be leaving on the midnight boat and the theatre will have to close its doors.

The players haven't been paid this week.

Creditors agreed earlier not to press collection of accounts and to extend credit for one more month.

KIDNAP FEARED

Richie. About 50 of them, including the mothers of Richie's playmates, hunted through the night.

Mrs. Edna Cowley, 1655 North Dairy Road, kept her home open all night, serving coffee and sandwiches to the searchers.

Searchers had slim evidence on which to work. There was nothing to point the direction in which Richie might have wandered. Patsy Graham, 12, told Deputy Police Chief Harry Mercer, in charge of the hunt, and Inspector Perris Atkinson:

"I saw him playing near the Bowker Creek ditch about 5.15."

That must have been within a few minutes of the time Richie was called to work for supper and just after he slipped away from the house. But the time is not positive.

One of his small playmates, Gary Thompson, three, told officers: "He told me yesterday afternoon (Wednesday) he was going to Mount Tolmie."

An unidentified man, one of scores who have telephoned the Cliff home, said he was hurrying for a bus about 8.30 Wednesday evening when a small boy who might have been Richie asked him the way to Beacon Hill Park.

It was this report that took sailor searchers to that area.

In the Kingston Avenue area, close to the McKay-Cormack plant, James Bay, other searchers combed the neighborhood where Richie at one time lived.

Half the net proceeds of the tax, he said, will be paid to "wet" municipalities to more than compensate for the extra cost of polling liquor outlets.

Liberal Leader Art Laing said the tax is "almost forcing the dries to go wet."

The government's plan to distribute half the revenue from the tax to "wet" areas only, he said, would almost force the municipalities to allow liquor outlets. Naturally, he said, they'd want some of the revenue.

Mrs. Lydia Arsens (SC, Victoria), termed this line of thinking "ridiculous."

She didn't think the "almighty dollar" would outweigh the non-drinkers' desire to keep their communities free of liquor.

P. A. Gibbs (Lib, Oak Bay), said the government is overtaxing the people.

He also complained because the provision raising the sales tax exemption on meals and the 10 per cent liquor sales tax are in the same bill.

"We have to vote for the 10 per cent tax, which we don't like, in order to get the increased exemption on meals, which we favor," he said.

Leo Nimsick (CCF, Cranbrook), said the government is always talking about lowering taxes, "but you've done nothing but increase them."

"How did the Premier sell the liquor act to all those dries on his side of the House?" he asked. "There must have been an agreement made for a few pieces of silver (new tax)."

The Premier said he didn't have to "sell" the new law.

Tony Gargrave (CCF, MacKenzie) said the government is designing its drinking places for the "well to do" only.

Many people, he said, won't be able to afford a drink in the new outlets.

calls England, home, though he likes to be regarded as a citizen of the world. He recalls that he played his first concert in London in October, 1908, and has since then, repeatedly toured the civilized world.

This year he has come directly to Vancouver and Victoria from England, after travelling through Italy, Spain and Portugal on a concert tour. He played a concert in Yorkshire the night before he sailed and Mrs. Moiseiwitsch comments smilingly that they nearly missed the boat-train.

But the pianist likes to keep busy—even though it means a tight squeeze at times. He impresses one as a compact, perfectly controlled mass of nervous energy and dynamism and it is no surprise to learn that he never stops working and is convinced a musician never comes to the end of growth and learning.

That is the prime reason for the dummy keyboard. Also it warms and flexes his hands when he is waiting in a cold room to open a concert. He admits that, done up in its zippered case, it looks like a machine gun and tells an amusing story concerning it.

In one foreign country, customs officials were suspicious of it and called an inspector to examine it. "Oh, yes," said the inspector, "another pianist carries one of these things."

"Who is that?" enquired Moiseiwitsch.

"Benno Moiseiwitsch," replied the inspector.

During the war years in England, the Russian artist was one of the musicians who made such an outstanding contribution to British morale in the air raids. He played more than 800 recitals and orchestral concerts in the British Isles under unimaginable conditions in bombed-out and unheated buildings.

He was the last artist to perform in Queen's Hall before that famous auditorium received a direct hit.

For his war-time services he received one of Britain's highest honors, the CBE.

All indications to the contrary, however, Benno Moiseiwitsch does occasionally have time for recreation and is an enthusiastic golfer. It had been reported that he enjoyed cards, especially bridge and poker. Asked about this, he commented in his slow dry way, but with the twinkle that reveals his lively sense of humor:

"Yes, I like a card game very much. After all I have to make money somehow."

He is a proud father of three children. Tanya is a well known stage costume designer in England, and designed all the costumes for the Shakespeare festival at Stratford, Ont., last summer. Another daughter, Sandra, has a hat shop in London. Mr. and Mrs. Moiseiwitsch have one son, Boris.

The international pianist never eats before a concert so Mrs. Moiseiwitsch is quite used to large meals being partaken at midnight. He likes continental cookery best but can enjoy a dinner of good roast beef and Yorkshire pudding any time, according to his wife.

They expect to spend two or three days in Victoria before leaving for the United States part of the tour. Only other two cities in Canada to hear the artist this year, will be London and Toronto.

They are guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Levy, Cranmore Road. Mrs. Levy is a cousin of Mrs. Moiseiwitsch and the latter was a bridesmaid at Mrs. Levy's wedding.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest.

By AUDREY S.T.D. JOHNSON

The world-renowned pianist who will play his first concert in Victoria tonight at 8.30 at the Royal Theatre, arrived from Vancouver Wednesday, accompanied by charming Mrs. Moiseiwitsch and his practice keyboard, from both of which he is inseparable when he goes on his tours.

His memories of his former en route visit to this city and his brush with the guardians of the gate, have to do with a Russian passport which was officially looked upon with disfavor.

"But now," he tells you, "I am the proud possessor of a British passport!"

Born in Odessa, he became a British subject in 1937 and

Imitation Suede Skirts Are Warm for Winter Wear

By PENNY SAYER

Always popular are those classy circular skirts, and I predict that we'll be seeing lots of them around before the fall and winter seasons are over. Matter of fact, there are plenty of them around town right now!

I'll bet there aren't many Victoria ladies who have seen them made of suede, though. (I'd better confess that they are really an imitation suede, although they look surprisingly realistic.) Just what you're needing for those chilly fall and winter days ahead is one of these heavy, warm, "suede" skirts.

My choice was in a warm British tan shade, styled plainly, yet cut full so that it would swing gracefully as one walks... $14.95.

There was another that I liked particularly too. It's made of forest green "suede" and has a saucy pocket with yellow trim. For $9.95 you'll have this stylish skirt for school or work days, to keep you looking at your best... and feeling at your warmest.

Oh! Giving a shower, eh? Then you're just the person I want to see. No doubt you'll be serving olives and pickles to go with the sandwiches, so why not add an original touch by spiking them with dainty plastic picks, made to represent umbrellas. Cute idea, I'd say! Yes, they're inexpensive. Why, for just 25 cents you get a packet containing 12 picks in various colors.

He looks as if he might be a fox terrier, but it's rather difficult for me to tell you if he is for sure. You see, the only part of him that shows is his little hind end and a sweet puppy, though (what there is of him) and he'd look mighty attractive on that knick-knack shelf! Made of porcelain, of course, he costs 69 cents.

Novelty cookie jars are made in shapes of quaint country cottages. Roof-lids are complete with chimneys. Price tag, $6.50.

Plenty of Girls Are Interested in Marriage

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

When a young man is interested in marriage he has no difficulty meeting plenty of girls if he goes about it in the right way. That is the advice I am giving this one:

(Q)—"I am 25 years old. I got out of the army in 1948 and found that all my friends were married or thinking about it. I have been looking around for a nice girl but to date I haven't had much success. I thought maybe you would be able to help me and tell me how to meet one."

(A)—When a young man is in a position to marry and is anxious to do so, one of the easiest things in the world is to find plenty of girls who are just as anxious to marry as he. If you go about it the right way you will soon find yourself in the position of having to choose among many nice girls.

Since most of your friends are married or thinking about it, your first approach should be through them. Ask them to have their wives or girl friends introduce you to some of their friends. All young married women or engaged girls have girl friends who are single and are available for dates. You may even meet some of your friends' sisters or their wives' sisters.

Because these men are your friends, the chances are that the girls they marry have friends whose interests would be similar to yours. And it would make your social life both before and after marriage very pleasant if you dated girls who were already friends of your friends.

There are also church and different community organizations for young people to turn to when you want to meet congenial people of your own age. Speak to your pastor; he will advise you which church social or service group would have girls of the right age for you. The chances are that he knows of plenty of young women to whom he can introduce you.

Elizabeth Hurlock is one of the nation's best psychologists, and she will gladly help you with personal problems.

Christmas Theme At Oct. Meeting

Decorated trees aglow with colored lights, tables covered with poinsettia cloths and centred with miniature trees, tinsel and Santa Claus favors imparted a festive mood for members at a recent meeting of Victoria Chapter 25, Women of the Moose, carrying out the theme of Christmas in October.

Initiated into the defending circle were Mrs. E. Pegg, Mrs. M. Gillard, Mrs. A. Woodfield, Mrs. A. Spaven, Mrs. L. Panter, Mrs. H. Piccoli and Miss P. Abery. Sponsors of candidates presented senior regent Miss D. Guelpa with a corsage and named the class in her honor. Reports given were Mrs. J. Riddle, membership; Mrs. E. Russell, child care; Mrs. F. Benzie, hospital.

Chapter was thanked for their assistance in serving tea at the annual bazaar of Aged Pensioners No. 5. Commemorating 40 years of service to children at the Child City, Mooseheart activities will commence with a service at Metropolitan United Church. Annual bazaar and tea will be held Wednesday afternoon in the tango room. Convener is Mrs. W. Bentham. Klondike and dance the following evening at K of P Hall will bring the two-day event to a close. At supper those born in October cut the birthday cake which was in the shape of a Christmas tree.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

If Legs Are Too Fat Simply Kick About It

Many women have a nice figure except for extremely large arms or large legs. Often these are an inherited characteristic. Large arms are sometimes an evidence of glandular imbalance. However, we can help the situation even in those who have an inherited tendency toward these figure faults.

Everyone has his or her own characteristic weight distribution. A gain of 10 pounds may show up most in the abdomen of one woman while another may feel that the whole 10 pounds has landed on her hips. This is an individual matter and even then it changes as the years pile up. Perhaps when you were younger you gained more symmetrically. The extra pounds did not bunch up on you in certain spots. Later you may find that even five pounds thickens your waistline.

So? We must fight these tendencies with exercise. Here is one for the large arms: Stand erect with your toes pointing forward and your arms hanging at your sides. Raise your arms sideways—upward and clap your hands overhead. Your elbows must be straight. Lower arms sideways downward to starting position. Continue.

For overall large legs do this: Stand facing a wall and place both hands on the wall. Bend your left knee up in front of you. Kick backwards hard. Continue bending and kicking backwards. After a while bend your right knee up in front of you and kick backwards. Continue bending and kicking. This sounds like a silly exercise but I have seen it work many times. You must do this about 100 times morning and night, that means 50 times for each leg.

morning and night. It takes time.

If your problem is more specific and you wish to reduce bulges on your thighs you may want my exercise routine for that. If so send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 4 "Reducing the Thighs," to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

When you buy straight Tomato Soup and add an equal amount of milk to produce a soup that tastes something like Cream of Tomato Soup, you lose out on getting a rich creamy flavour and you also lose out on the cost.

Why not buy Cream of Tomato Soup to start with, as made by Heinz? Then you can save on milk and get a better result by simply adding water. Instead of a milky tomato soup you will get the true creamy taste most people enjoy—for Heinz Cream of Tomato Soup is made with thick country cream. Remember, too, that this soup is much more flavourful because only pedigreed tomatoes are good enough for Heinz.

Try a comparison between straight tomato soup diluted with milk and Heinz Cream of Tomato Soup with only water added. When you have tasted the wonderful difference you will want to stock up with Heinz and eat happily ever after.

Un-Named Country Colorful Home Of Woman Doctor Visiting Here

BY AUDREY S.T.D. JOHNSON

She is not exactly a woman without a country, but she is not quite sure of the name of the country to which she belongs.

That is the unique position of Dr. Olive Robertson, a visitor from the far continent of Africa, who is a guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Sawyer, 1866 Forrester Street.

At the moment, Salisbury, Rhodesia, is her home, but the Federation of Northern and Southern Rhodesia and Nyasaland is emerging from the melting pot, a new parliament will sit in the New Year and at that time the Federation will receive official baptism. The name, however, has not yet been decided upon.

Dr. Robertson came to Canada representing the Federation of Women's Institutes of Southern Rhodesia at the conference of Associated Countrywomen of the World, held this summer in Toronto.

FAMILY OF SEVEN

She is one of a family of five girls and two boys—"All of them individualists," she says. She visited a brother and sister in Toronto; the latter is a psychologist and speech therapist at the Hospital for Sick Children.

In New York she visited another sister, who teaches at the Playhouse School of Theatre. Dr. Robertson herself, has had a life of absorbing interest since she left Cayuga, Ont., where she grew up, and went to Edinburgh to study medicine.

It was there that she met her husband, Dr. James H. G. Robertson, a Rhodesian, married and accompanied him to Africa in the early 1930's. He is now senior government medical officer in Salisbury, a city of 40,000 white and 90,000 colored population. Up to a short while ago they lived at Bulawayo where he was superintendent of the native hospital.

"We are both interested in what is being done for the natives," she tells you. "We feel they should be given plenty of time to assimilate education and not be rushed politically." INTER-RACIAL UNIVERSITY

As an example of what is intended along these lines, Dr. Robertson discusses the proposals for the new university, foundation stone of which was laid by Queen Mother Elizabeth on her recent visit to Rhodesia. Dr. Robertson is a member of the inaugural board of the university and upon unanimous vote it was decided to admit natives on similar entrance qualifications as apply to white students.

Slim, dark-eyed, vital Dr. Robertson is enthusiastic about her adopted country. She loves the climate—six months dry, six months wet—the fact that it is high and exhilarating, 4,000 feet above sea level, the garden mixtures of semi-tropical and English flowers, the wide variety of fruits.

She tells enjoyably of an ostrich egg her son found. "It turned out to be perfectly fresh, which is unusual. I made my

Dr. Robertson... a family of individualists.

Christmas cakes with it, diluted half and half with hen's eggs. It made three cakes, two puddings and we had three breakfast omelets from it as well!" she comments.

Another item that Dr. Robertson is keen about is the Rhodesia Centenary Exhibition held in Bulawayo just before she left.

"It was really a wonderful experience," she tells you, eyes shining reminiscently. "A real panorama of the history and development of Rhodesia."

OUTDOOR THEATRE

One thing made history in itself. A huge theatre was erected with a roofed stage and 3,000 tiered concrete seats. And there, Dr. Robertson recalls the thrill of seeing Gielgud in "Richard III," the Sadler's Wells Ballet, and hearing the Halle Orchestra, among other notable imported attractions.

About her own career, she tells you she likes public health work best. "I specialized in pediatrics for a time, but then was busy having my own children."

She has three sons, aged 17, 15 and 13. At the moment Dr. Robertson is not practicing medicine but takes an active part in public life and was a member of the Bulawayo city council.

Domestic life in Rhodesia is easy and pleasant, she says. Native servants are available at wages which, while they are higher than formerly, would still be very low in Canada. Home equipment is quite good though there is less of it than in this country.

"What I can't get over," she says, "is the prodigal use of paper. In Africa we have no soft woods and everything made of paper must be imported. One of the outstanding experiences she has had on her trip

Silk Exhibit From London Includes Fabulous Items

F. W. T. Mitchellmore, United Kingdom trade commissioner for B.C., will officially open the silk display at Hudson's Bay Company's Douglas Room on Saturday at 10 a.m. The exhibition was purchased outright by buyers of the company after it was viewed at Silk Centre in Park Lane, London, in June.

Fabrics are the newest in silk, rayon, nylon and other synthetic fibres, are of the highest quality and in a variety of most attractive designs.

They will be a feast for the eyes of a very pro-British section of the Canadian public who have not in the past had many opportunities of seeing the lovely fabrics which the British silk industry now produces. When the exhibition is over members of the public will be able to buy the fabrics and have them made up into dresses, and it is confidently expected that this introduction to British fabrics will stimulate a continuing demand in this part of Canada.

Besides dress fabrics the display includes lengths of the handwoven silk velvets used for the Queen's Coronation robe of state and her Parliament robe.

the cream satin with which the robes were lined, and the cloth of gold used for the stole Royal and the girdle which Her Majesty wore during the Coronation ceremony. It also includes a screen printed portrait of Her Majesty on a silk crepe-de-chine square.

The Canadian housewife has always been a shrewd and critical buyer. A manufacturer may win her confidence today with a product of superior quality. But let him once relax his standards and she will leave him tomorrow for a new and better brand. Especially so with salmon.

How striking, then, is the record of Todd's Horseshoe Brand salmon. Introduced in 1882, this superb red sockeye became noted for its fresh-caught flavor and unflinching excellence. Today, after 71 years, it is still the mark of quality with those who know canned salmon.

Bill Approves BCHIS Arrears Cancellation

Legislation backing up the government's revised hospital insurance plan, announced last May, was introduced in the Legislature on Tuesday night by Health and Welfare Minister Eric Martin.

The bill gives the government authority to cancel premium arrears instead of merely to suspend them.

The government suspended all arrears in the spring in an effort to attract more persons into BCHIS. It was felt many persons were staying delinquent because they owed back premiums and feared facing payment in full.

The government's insured benefit plan, another feature in effect for six months, also is regularized by the bill. This is the plan whereby prompt registrants can accumulate up to three months' free coverage in 18 months of payments. The bill authorizes the cabinet to pass regulations prescribing the manner in which cancellations of arrears can be carried out.

Coal is forming in the United States at the present time, in the Dismal Swamp, the Everglades, and a few similar places.

New Protest Against Richardson Bus Cut

Another protest petition against elimination of Richardson Street bus service after 6 p.m. was received at City Hall Wednesday. It was signed by Joan Emerson, 630 Foul Bay Road, and 187 others.

It stated: "As the B.C. Electric is a public service company, its aim should be to give service to the general public. Removal of the Richardson Street bus at this time will work a great hardship on many people."

features

- Life-like picture quality with Marconi's exclusive "Chromatic Contrast".
- Outstanding immunity to electrical interference from appliances, automobiles and streetcars.
- Cascade tuner which instantly tunes in any channel — it's adaptable to UHF.
- Handcrafted cabinets in selected veneers from a new, modern furniture factory. The distinctive designs are by internationally famed Federico.

WHAT "LIFE-TESTED" MEANS TO YOU...

It's the extra test by Marconi engineers which gives you the ultimate in dependability.

Here's how we carefully check and test YOUR television receiver.

First, all components are checked by quality-control, sub-assemblies are carefully inspected and then the completed chassis is measured, checked and re-checked for picture and sound. But we don't stop there.

The extra step, "life-testing", enables our engineers to subject every receiver to tests equivalent to many weeks of normal home use. Because we "life-test", our TV receivers and devote more time and more care to testing and checking, Marconi TV receivers consistently exceed their guaranteed performance.

The new advanced design, quality engineered Marconi TV chassis is precision built to bring you clear, brilliant, high definition pictures with accompanying noise-free FM sound. For your own protection, look for the "life-tested" seal — it appears on the safety glass of every Marconi TV receiver and it's your assurance of top performance and exceptional reliability.

FROM STUDIO TO LIVING ROOM IT'S MARCONI. Many Canadian radio stations have been completely equipped by Marconi. Marconi has supplied much of the studio, mobile and transmitting apparatus used by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's television stations. ## Movies of Queen Charlottes Decaying Totems Featured Color movies of the decaying totem poles of the Queen Charlotte Islands will be featured in an address to be given by Wilson Duff, Provincial Museum anthropologist, to the monthly meeting of the B.C. Indian Arts and Welfare Society at the Arts Centre, Moss Street, at 8.15 tonight. Mr. Duff made the survey of the long-deserted Haida Indian totem pole villages. While most of the totems have faded away there are still many fine examples of magnificent Haida sculpture which could be salvaged and preserved and Mr. Duff is attempting to promote a program to do this. The public is invited to attend.

TWO for the SHOW

By DAVE STOCK

AA (Oscar Class) A (Don't Miss) BB (Worthwhile) B (For Rainy Days) C (To put in time)

(Guesting for the old column today is Timesman David Stock. Dave needs an introduction to local G and S fans, having appeared with the Victoria Gilbert and Sullivan Operatic Society in the society's last three offerings. Hear him well.—P.L.)

OSCAR CLASS "THE STORY OF GILBERT AND SULLIVAN" (Royal)—It's not at all necessary to be a Gilbert and Sullivan fan to enjoy this. But the odds are 10 to 1 that if you would be a first rate film.

Though screenwriters Sidney Gilliat and Leslie Baily have taken certain liberties with the actual biographies of the librettist and composer, they've kept close enough to the real thing to produce such a satisfactory result. No serious objection will be raised.

For died-in-the-wool G-and-Sers, though, it's the wonderful helping of tunes, served up before actual stage settings, which make the picture worth seeing several times.

Robert Morley plays the portly, somewhat pompous Gilbert in such a way you can't help liking the man. The noted Shakespearean actor Maurice Evans wins your sympathy as Arthur Sullivan, the quiet, unassuming half of the partnership. He is depicted as a man torn between the pleasure of making merry operas with Gilbert and the earnest obligation he feels toward writing compositions of a more serious nature.

Peter Finch, a suave Australian actor, plays Richard D'Oyle Carte, their mutual friend and manager. Supporting players are all excellent.

In the singing sequences, such as the English vocalists as Martyn Green, Webster Booth, Marjorie Thomas, Muriel Brunskill and Owen Brannigan are seen and heard. The settings and costumes are strictly from the Savoy. The unseen man behind the musicianship is Sir Malcolm Sargent, who began work on the sound track months before the film itself went into production. The musical score is played by the full London Symphony Orchestra.

It seems an established rule that British films are either good or bad with no in-betweens. This one is outstanding. Thanks to clever cameramen you see the Savoy shows not only from the best seat in the house but from the wings backstage and from overhead lighting platforms.

Skillful photographic direction throughout warrants particular mention. An example of its effective use in Gilbert's descent down the carpet over which he, Sullivan and D'Oyle Carte had their most famous quarrel.

One sees only the feet of the author as he takes his leave. The close-up of shoe and slipper (on his gout-ridden foot) as he comes down the staircase, tells a great deal not only of Gilbert in particular, but of stubborn Englishmen in general.

Hunter Killed By Bumpy Road; Had Gun in Car
MONTREAL (BUP)—Police Wednesday blamed a bumpy road for firing a shotgun blast that killed a hunter and left another in critical condition.

The mishap killed Marcelle Brouard, 27, and seriously injured his hunting companion, Paul Denoncourt, 26, both of Mont Carmel, Que.

Provincial police detective-captain Leopold Troitier said both men were riding in a panel truck on a bumpy road. "A 12-gauge shotgun in the back of the open truck somehow went off, probably when the truck made a sudden bounce on the dirt road," Troitier said. "The blast tore through a wooden partition, killing Brouard instantly and hitting Denoncourt in the right hand and left shoulder."

Denoncourt staggered a mile and a half through the bush before he found help and collapsed.

ON HIS 63RD BIRTHDAY

Eisenhower's Admirers Throw a 'Lolapalooza'

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower was 63 years old Wednesday and bearing up well under the glittering burden of the most star-spangled birthday celebration in generations.

He scheduled a full day in his office, including appointments with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and the British ambassador before starting out late tonight on a five-state speaking tour that will take him from Ohio to the Mexican border.

There was little inclination at the White House to hold a birthday celebration of any size after the extravaganza Republicans staged last night at Hershey, Pa.

There was nothing in recent American history like the Hershey party. It had everything from a massed chorus of 1,800 voices chanting "I Like Ike" to golf pros chipping sponge rubber practice balls into the president's lap.

30-FOOT CAKE

There were birthday cakes by the hundred, including one (wooden) over 30 feet high and another (real) seven feet tall. At one point, the president received a fiery salute from 7,000 persons, each equipped with a small wooden birthday cake and a lighted red candle.

And to top off a long evening there was a historical pageant set to music which was interrupted by laughter and applause when Paul Revere on horseback rode around an arena ring, followed quite seriously by a man in colonial military costume and bearing a shovel.

An estimated 20,000 to 25,000 persons participated in the celebration which included three parties—an outdoor box supper in a stadium, a $100-a-plate roast beef dinner in a circus tent and a three-hour show in the Hershey arena.

High spot of the evening, for Mr. Eisenhower was formal notification of the creation of the Eisenhower exchange fellowships by friends across the country to promote better international understanding. This was his big birthday gift.

Conciliation Set For Cartage Firm Workers' Contract

A conciliation board is expected to meet within 10 days to hear contract negotiation arguments between six city transfer and cartage firms and their 125 drivers, swamper and warehousemen.

Employees, represented by General Teamsters' Union Local 885 (TLC) seek a 10-cent hourly wage increase, reduction of the work week from 47 to 44 hours, and nine paid statutory holidays instead of seven.

On the board are George A. Wilkinson, Vancouver, chairman; W. H. M. Haldane, Victoria, employers' nominee; and E. T. Staley, Royal Oak, employees' nominee.

Drunken Bonnie Forgets Where She Hid $300,000

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—Carl Austin Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Heady, confessed kidnappers and killers of Bobby Green, settled down in separate cells today for what may be a long wait before society takes its toll for their crime. U.S. District Attorney Edward R. Scheufler said "we're going to move slowly" in preparing the case against them under the Lindbergh kidnapping law.

Days of searching have failed to produce any trace of the $300,000 which had vanished by the time Hall and his hard-drinking woman accomplice were arrested in St. Louis October 6. Neither could give a coherent story of the disposal of the money.

On Tuesday Hall told a deputy U.S. marshal he believed Mrs. Heady knew where the money was. Hall said he thought Mrs. Heady hid the $300,000 while she was drunk and had forgot the location.

The ancients believed that the dew which accumulated upon the plant known as St. John's Wort, during the night preceding St. John's Day, possessed healing powers.

STOP BALDNESS

GROW A THICK HEAD OF HAIR—
Hendrik Hutten Shows You How!

E. R. Taton, Chief Specialist of the Hendrik Hutten Clinics shows how a thorough scalp examination is conducted before treatments are suggested.

SEE how you, too, can grow thicker hair and stop baldness! WITHOUT CHARGE OR OBLIGATION, a Hendrik Hutten specialist will examine your hair and scalp and tell you exactly why your hair is getting thinner. He will plan treatments to correct the condition—treatments you can continue in the privacy and convenience of your own home.
30-DAY GUARANTEE—you risk nothing. After 30 days of Hendrik Hutten treatments, if you are not satisfied with the benefits of the treatments, your money will be refunded. So there is no need to be skeptical. 95% of bald men today were skeptical about scalp treatments until it was too late, or they ignored their thinning hair until it was gone forever. Act promptly. Find out now why your hair is thinning and how you can regain thick, glossy hair.

Dr. Hendrik Hutten, Ph. D., of New Jersey, author of the book, "Healthy Hair." Dr. Hutten has a background of 45 years of study and research on the care of the hair and scalp.

Victoria Nursing Home Bill Before Assembly

A bill validating a Victoria City bylaw authorizing expenditure of $150,000 towards the cost of an addition to the Victoria Nursing Home was introduced in the Legislature Wednesday.

The bill was given first reading.

Churchill Visits Queen at Palace

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill called on the Queen at Buckingham Palace Wednesday night a few hours after her return from her summer vacation in Scotland.

It was not disclosed what they discussed.

DRUMS TO BEAT B.C. ELECTORS TO NEXT POLL

British Columbia's election campaigns will be lively affairs from now on.

A change in the Elections Act permits political parties to arouse party spirit and political interest with banners, flags and campaign buttons.

All these can be used during the whole campaign with the exception of election day.

Party managers will be permitted to hire bands, dancers, and practically any type of entertainment in good taste.

The first campaign to experience the new-type politicking will be the one for Finance Minister Einar Gundersen, who will seek election before the spring session.

Ceiling on Liquor Outlets Urged

A ceiling on the number of liquor outlets which might be established in any municipality has been recommended to the provincial government by the Alcohol Research and Education Council and the Greater Victoria Citizens' Association.

A joint brief was presented Tuesday on behalf of the two groups to Attorney-General Bonner. It was presented by Arthur W. Cowley, executive director of the AREC, and M. F. Hunter, a vice-president of the council and president of the citizens' association.

The brief suggested a ceiling on the number of outlets be fixed on a per capita basis as is done in New Zealand and elsewhere.

The brief suggested if no limit were placed upon the number of outlets in a community, a situation might develop which would amount to "a tavern on every corner."

The brief was very much in line with a brief presented last week by the Victoria Ministerial Association.

It asked that the liquor control board be fully constituted by having three members, and not just one; that the government agree to reconsider its liquor policy and control regulations after three years, when the soundness of the present bill can be considered in the light of experience.

The brief asked the government to conduct local option votes wherever a new type of liquor license is applied for, without the necessity of a petition.

It asked, in the alternative, that the government petitions to bear signatures of only 25 per cent of the population, instead of 35, and that the government require a 60 per cent affirmative vote before outlets are established, instead of the 55 per cent required under the act.

Don't Neglect Slipping FALSE TEETH

Do false teeth drop, slip or wobble when you talk, eat, laugh or sneeze? Don't be annoyed and embarrassed by such handicaps. FASTER, an alkaline (non-acid) powder to sprinkle on your plates, keeps false teeth more firmly set. Gives confident feeling of security and added comfort. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Get FASTER TEETH today at any drug store.

Bing Crosby Hurt In Car Collision

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bing Crosby suffered a wrenched back in an automobile accident Sunday, the highway patrol reported. Patrolman W. J. Koehler said Crosby, driving alone, was involved in a collision with another car at the intersection. Koehler said Crosby complained of a wrenched back and is being treated by a private physician at his home.

THURSDAY, OCT. 15, 1953 Victoria Daily Times 29

LONDON (CP)—The curtain at Drury Lane's Theatre Royal went up and down countless times as the audience stood cheering and joined with the cast in singing "Some Enchanted Evening." It was the last London performance of "South Pacific" staged here more than 1,000 times with first Mary Martin and then Julie Wilson in the part of Nellie Forbush.

Hundreds Mobilized for Search

An army of 400 sailors, soldiers, police and civilians is hunting Richard Poole, five-year-old foster son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cluff, 1627 Burton, in the Hillside district. The little boy has been missing since 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Above, volunteers get briefing and compare notes as fresh search teams prepare to extend the area of the hunt, biggest in the history of this city, today. (Times photo.)

This Boy Is Missing

Police have broadcast a description of five-year-old Richard Poole, missing from his Oaklands district home since 5 p.m. Wednesday. He is dressed in blue jeans and a dark T-shirt. His hair is bright blond, and his face is heavily freckled. His nose is peeling from sunburn. He is big for his age, about 46 inches tall, and intelligent. "Like a boy of eight," his foster parents say. (See more photos, Page 17.)

A HAPPY BOY

'He Wouldn't Run Away...'

Weight is lent the theory that Richard Poole, five, has been abducted by the statements of neighbors who knew the child and by Mrs. Carol Cluff, his foster mother. "He's such a nice little fellow and seemed so happy, I can't imagine him running away," said Mrs. Agnes Butterfield, 1637 Burton. "I was one of 13 children," Mrs. Cluff said. "And my father and mother adopted another child. We were a happy home. And while I have two adopted babies of my own, Richie and his little brother were just like our own. We'd like to have half a dozen more. "Richie is a happy little boy. He has lots of playmates. He wouldn't run away. "Any little boy seen wandering about at night dressed like Richie was," a sailor said, "would have been noticed at once and taken care of. Somebody's got hold of him and is keeping him. Maybe someone found him and just hasn't got around to calling police. Maybe they're scared to."

"There are only two things that can have happened," Deputy Chief of Police Harry Mercer said, in discussing the disappearance of Richard Poole, five, from his foster home at 1627 Burton, in the Hillside area. "He has either wandered far out of the area of the search, or he has been picked up by somebody," he added.

Questioned directly as to whether or not he suspected kidnapping, the deputy chief was noncommittal.

The search will continue, he said.

Deputy Chief Mercer slept for two hours today but went back to the direction of the search shortly after 1 p.m.

Vancouver Island Rangers have not been called out to search for missing Richard Poole.

"It's too late for our dogs to do anything now," Gordon Sword, one of the Rangers' officers, said. "I wish we had been called last night when the little fellow was first reported missing."

His Rangers, Mr. Sword said, are organized and equipped to make instant response in any emergency, but especially for night hunts.

"Of course, we're willing and ready to go out if we are called. But the navy and the army has manpower quite equal to the task," Mr. Sword added.

MacDonald Named Senate Leader By PM

OTTAWA (BUP) — Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent today announced the appointment of W. Ross MacDonald, former speaker of the House of Commons, to the cabinet as minister without portfolio and government leader in the senate.

(Mr. St. Laurent announced Wednesday the government will nominate L. René Beaudoin as new speaker of Commons.)

The prime minister also announced the appointment of Sen. Wishart McL. Robertson, government leader in the upper chamber during the last parliament, as speaker of the senate.

The appointments were approved today by Governor General Vincent Massey.

MacDonald was appointed to the senate after the close of the last session of parliament. His appointment as leader had been forecast since that time. He had proved one of the most popular speakers in the Commons in recent years.

Today's announcements by the prime minister included the naming of seven additional parliamentary assistants for the coming session. They are: William M. Benedickson, Kenora-Rainy River, assistant to Finance Minister D. C. Abbott; Colin E. Bennett, Grey North, assistant to Veterans' Affairs Minister Hughes Lapointe; Maurice Bourget, Lévis, assistant to Public Works Minister Robert H. Winters; T. A. M. Kirk, Shelburne-Yarmouth-Clare, assistant to Postmaster General Alcide Cote; Leopold Langlois, Gaspe, assistant to Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier; Roch Pinard, Chambly-Rouville, assistant to External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson; and Dr. F. G. Robertson, Northumberland, Ont., assistant to Health and Welfare Minister Paul Martin.

400 Searchers Fail To Find City Tot

By ROY THORSEN

After an all-night search failed to locate a missing five-year-old boy in the Hillside district of Victoria, both police and neighbors expressed fears today that he may have been picked up and taken away.

The missing boy is Richard Poole, 1627 Burton Avenue, who has not been seen since 5 p.m. Wednesday.

By press time today more than 400 people, including police, naval units, soldiers and civilians were scouring a mile square area near the lad's home.

Because it is a well populated area the theory of a possible kidnapping was advanced by searchers, although they had nothing more to go on than that he had vanished without trace. No strangers or suspicious characters have been reported in the neighborhood.

His foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cluff, believe Richie has been enticed away, probably by a passing motorist.

"He's a cute, likeable little fellow, with freckles all over his face," William George, 1615 Burton, said. "It's my honest opinion," said Mr. George, "that Richie has been picked up and taken away."

Had No Supper Wednesday Night

Mrs. Carol Cluff, Richie's foster mother, tells how the little boy vanished.

He came into the house about 5 o'clock, she told a reporter. She told him to get himself washed before supper. He took off his jacket and washed his face and hands, and vanished. He had no supper.

"He has been with me for six months and he has never run away before," Mrs. Cluff said. "I have two children of my own and two foster children. I love them all."

Hesitantly she admitted she thought he must have been picked up by a passing car. Within a short time after Richie left his home, neighbors had been told he could not be found. There was a brief, cursory search of the neighborhood, which gained speed and energy as time passed without a trace of the child being discovered.

By 6 p.m. the police had joined the hunt.

By 2 p.m. the Navy's first contingent had mustered, and at dawn today 170 sailors, under Lieut. Harold Moise, RCN, and 125 soldiers, as well as civilians and police, were organized.

WITH BESSIE IN JAPAN

Sanjo and Seito Prove Happy Guides

By BESSIE FORBES
What shall I remember of Nara? ... The city that in 700 A.D. was named first permanent capital of Japan.

"The deer in the park! Rows of ancient stone lanterns! Many-storied pagodas! The Great Buddha! ... a cup of good English tea."

And always, in the background, the brown wrinkled faces of Sanjo and Seito, Rickshaw boys, who jogged Vancouverite Mary Russell and I around to see all these sights ... and many more.

We found them ... seated on their heels beside their rickshaws ... in front of Nara Hotel, when we came from the station (forty minutes by second class express from Kyoto, at a fare of 280 yen ... about 75 cents).

Sanjo could speak English, he said, in a strange mixture of words ... So could Seito.

"He was teaching him!" We hired them on the spot. Sanjo, with his ONE knowing

AMOUNT OF THE RAIN KEY TO CROSSWORD; NO WINNER

Although the puzzle was printed in only two days' editions last weekend due to the holiday, entries in the weekly crossword contest reached near the 5,000 mark, but there was still no winner.

Biggest stickler was the word "cracks," which the puzzle composer rules is the best answer to the definition "heavy rains can obliterate them from the ground." Most people answered "tracks," but the puzzle man points out that very light rain can obliterate tracks.

With no winner this week the next puzzle, appearing tomorrow, Saturday and Monday, will be worth $175, plus the $50 bonus if the winner is a regular subscriber. Correct answer to Puzzle No. 29 is on Page 27.

Chinese PWs Rebuff Reds

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Balking Chinese war prisoners today rejected overwhelmingly the first Communist attempt to coax them home.

Of 500 Chinese, who met Red interviewers in an opening session, only seven requested repatriation to Red China, said the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission.

The long-delayed interviews began only after Indian custodian troops pried the wildly demonstrating Chinese from their compounds with threats of force.

After defying two Indian ultimatums, the first 200 rock-throwing, bugle-blowing anti-Red Chinese finally submitted to Communist persuasion teams.

Communist persuasion teams will talk to 1,000 prisoners Friday, including at least 500 North Koreans.

Dulles in Britain For Big Three Talks

LONDON (AP) — United States State Secretary Dulles arrived in London today for "save the peace" talks with Foreign Secretary Eden and French Foreign Minister Bidault. The explosive Trieste situation gave the conference new urgency.

The U.S. policy maker flew aboard a U.S. air force plane with his wife and four top state department experts.

Bidault was due from Paris early tonight.

The latest Big Three talks were scheduled to open Friday at the foreign office and to last through Saturday. Trieste undoubtedly was the top item for discussion, but a list of other topics faced the three ministers.

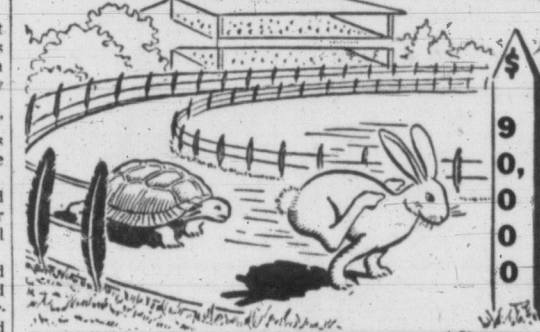

Prime Minister Churchill arranged to dine with Dulles to night and to meet Bidault separately. Churchill was expected to press on both his pet project for an informal conference of himself, President Eisenhower, French Premier Joseph Laniel and Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov.

Although both the foreign office and the U.S. state department claimed the get-together has been in the making for some time, it was given a war-or-peace urgency by Yugoslav President Tito's threats to use force to forestall the announced British-American plan to turn over Trieste's zone A to Italy.

In addition to Trieste and Churchill's Big Four project, the ministers also were expected to give final approval to their new note inviting Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov to meet them at Lugano, Switzerland, Nov. 9 to discuss Germany and Austria, and to study latest developments on the projected Korean peace conference.

LIQUOR BILL LOOPHOLE

Clubs May Escape 10% Tax By Using 'Locker' System

British Columbia membership clubs will be able to escape charging the new 10 per cent sales tax on drinks by re-instituting the "locker system" of serving liquor, it was reliably learned today.

Under the locker system a club member buys his bottle of liquor at a liquor store, places it in his locker at the club and is served from that bottle.

He is charged a service fee by the club, commonly known as "corkage."

The 10 per cent tax, it is said, cannot be charged under this system, because the member actually isn't buying the liquor from the club.

At least three clubs in Victorias and Vancouver now operate the locker system.

They can escape the tax, which goes into effect next week.

Clubs which don't have locker systems now, however, could change over and thereby escape the tax. These include veterans' clubs, golf clubs and various fraternal clubs — provided they qualify as membership clubs.

Even proprietary clubs, which face extinction under the new law, could conceivably qualify if they switched over to a bona fide membership set-up. But these clubs are only to exist until the end of next year, and a changeover is unlikely.

Earlier doubt about the effective date of the 10 per cent tax has now been clarified.

The tax will be effective next week in all establishments, except beer parlors, now selling drinks by the glass. This includes proprietary clubs and membership clubs (without locker systems).

It becomes law the moment the lieutenant-governor gives Royal assent to the bill when the House prorogues early next week.

Beer parlors in veterans' clubs will have the same status as separate beer parlors. The tax will not apply.

The new tax will be charged on beer, wine and hard liquor sold in restaurants, cocktail lounges and night clubs.

The tax also will be charged on all purchases in licensed premises which provide entertainment such as cabarets and night clubs, in lieu of the three per cent sales tax. This means the tax will be charged on meals as well as drinks in such premises.

The proposed 10 per cent sales tax on drinks by the glass in B.C. is unnecessary because the government already is making a $21,000,000 profit from liquor, Bruce Brown (Lib., Prince Rupert), said in the Legislature Wednesday night.

He was commenting during second reading of a bill imposing the new tax on liquor sold
